France Ponders Israeli Requests For Weapons

Paris Is Hopeful For Restoration Of Arms Balance

PARIS, April 4 (AP) — Official French sources said today the government is considering Israeli requests for French arms and would like to see the balance of power restored in the Middle East.

This balance, in the French view, was disturbed when the Soviet bloc started shipping 200 fighter planes and an estimated 60 jet bombers to Egypt. A dozen French Mystere jet interceptors are reliably reported on their way to Israel but no one in Paris will say how far they have gone. The Foreign Ministry has denied delivery of any Mysteres to Israel has started.

Decision Awaits Pineau Return

Additional Israeli requests have been made, the sources said, but no French answer has yet been given. Nothing is likely to be decided, they added, until Foreign Minister Christian Pineau returns from a trip to Israel.

After visiting Cairo last month, Pineau was scheduled to go this week to Syria, Lebanon and Israel. Before he could go, Syria and Lebanon joined the other Arab League nations in a statement calling for the independence of Algeria, where French troops are fighting Arab rebels. Now the Syrian Parliament is calling for a break in diplomatic relations with France.

In these circumstances, it would be humiliating for Pineau to visit Syria and Lebanon, but there is no reason to stay away from Israel.

Tel Aviv Trip Still On

Officials said the trip to Tel Aviv is still on, but could not say when it would take place. In any case, they added, nothing would be done about the arms requests until Pineau returns.

U.S. Secretary of State Dulles said yesterday that shipping small quantities of arms from other Western countries to Israel might help stabilize things in the area. He made it plain, however, that the United States does not plan to ship any itself—at least not right now. Some French officials professed to be puzzled at this attitude, but indicated that it made no change in their own intentions.

The American Red Cross said in Washington that 320 homes were destroyed, 969 damaged and 1,496 families affected in the eight states hardest hit Monday and Tuesday.

Red Cross disaster specialists and scores of Salvation Army officers and workers moved into the stricken areas with emergency relief equipment.

Six New York Firemen Killed By Falling Wall

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—A brick wall collapsed tonight in a Bronx fire and smothered at least a dozen firemen under chunks of masonry. At least six firemen were reported killed. Others were injured.

The blaze broke out in an artificial flower concern at 175th St. and Third Ave.

Among the injured was Antonio Petronelli, acting chief of the fire department, who suffered a broken leg.

Marquee Causes Collapse

Fire officials said the collapse apparently was caused by the weight of a metal-framed marquee, which pulled the wall down when its inside supports were weakened by the fire.

The fire broke out in the one-story building and four alarms had been sounded before the walls collapsed. A fifth alarm was sounded after the collapse, and ambulances, fire equipment and police rushed to the scene.

The injured firemen were taken to two hospitals by ambulances and a private station wagon commandeered by the firemen.

All the injured were reported in fair condition.

Men Attempt To Flee

Fire Commissioner Edward Cavanagh, who arrived on the scene early, was standing near the wall when it collapsed. He told reporters, "The canopy started to come down slowly—very slowly.

"Some of the men on the sidewalk close to the wall ran back toward the street and some ran in close to the building.

"When the canopy hit the pavement it shook the building and brought down the wall. Both those who ran back and those who ran forward got hit."

A priest was summoned by a passerby and administered last rites to all casualties.

Three Israelis Slain In Clash With Egyptians

JERUSALEM, Israeli Section, April 4 (AP)—Israel's army spokesman said three Israeli soldiers were killed today in a four-hour clash with Egyptians on the Gaza front.

The spokesman said an Israeli patrol was attacked by Egyptian automatic and mortar fire near Kissufim, a mile and a half from the Gaza strip border.

He reported the Israelis returned the fire and, later, artillery was brought into action to extricate the patrol.

The spokesman said one Arab Palestinian soldier was killed during the exchange.

AMMAN, Jordan, April 4 (AP) — Jordan soldiers shot an Israeli who attempted to cross into the demilitarized zone from Jaffa Gate in Jerusalem, an Arab Legion spokesman said today. It was not known whether the Israeli was killed because other Israelis pulled him back into Israeli territory, the spokesman said.

JERUSALEM, Israel Section, April 4 (AP) — The Israel-Jordan Mixed Armistice Commission today condemned Jordan for an attack last Friday night by Jordan irregulars on Israeli road traffic. One Israeli was wounded.

An Israel Foreign Ministry spokesman said that after a six-hour session, the commission adopted a resolution submitted by the Israel delegation which described the attack as an "unprovoked act of aggression."

Ike Says He'll Never Order U.S. Into War

Doesn't Agree Wis. Election Reflects Great Rural Unrest

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP) — President Eisenhower declared in forceful tones today that he never will send America off to war "until Congress directs it."

This was a restatement of an old position for the President, as was his word that in some instances American troops might have to act in self-defense without advance congressional approval. But it stood out at his news conference because of the emphasis he put into it and his obvious exasperation that anyone would even ask about it.

Also at the news conference:

1. Eisenhower said the nation's farmers "have a right to be somewhat bewildered," but he didn't go along with the idea that the presidential primary election in Wisconsin yesterday reflected great rural unrest over administration farm policy. He said he won't insist on a farm bill that meets all his ideas of perfection.

Disagrees With Adams

2. The President didn't go along, either, with the view of his top assistant, Sherman Adams, that Democratic leaders in Congress are deliberately frustrating the administration's legislative program in this election year. While there may be too much partisanship at times, Eisenhower said, "For myself, I believe that in general the people in the Congress are trying to do what they believe to be best for the United States.

3. The repudiation of Stalin in Russia, Eisenhower said, might represent "the beginning of a forced reformation of some kind"—if it were indicative of dissatisfaction among the masses of people behind the Iron Curtain. But, he added, he and Secretary of State Dulles agree that "there is no discernible basic change" in Communist objectives.

Mideast Like "Jackstraws"

4. Eisenhower likened the "strategically important" Mideast to "a stack of jackstraws — every time you touch one you are very apt to move the whole crowd and equilibrium is, to a certain extent, destroyed." He denied he has received any recent communication from British Prime Minister Anthony Eden urging the United States to join in a "firmer line" toward the Middle East.

5. The President said he has considered and rejected the idea of attending nuclear weapon tests in the Pacific next month because "I am trying to prove to the world that my chief interest in the nuclear science is peace."

1,000 Students Stage Ky. School Strike

HAZARD, Ky., April 4 (AP)—Two mountain high school principals were centers of controversy today as nearly 1,000 students stayed away from classes in strike against school officials.

The 750-student body of the M. C. Napier School at Hazard staged a mass strike to protest reports that Principal Walter Martin Jr. would not be rehired.

And, 50 miles to the west at London, more than 200 students went into the 10th day of a strike protesting Principal Harry Howard's announcement of resignation.

Howard said he was quitting because the Laurel County School Board refused to renew the contracts of two high school and three grade school teachers for the 1956-57 school year.

Reunion After 79 Years

Hiram Knox, 96, and his sister, Mrs. Ida Belle Fontana, 81, had a lot to get their heads together about yesterday—they hadn't seen each other in 79 years. Knox was separated from the rest of the family as a youth when his mother died. Mrs. Fontana learned her brother was alive recently when she saw his picture in a New Hampshire newspaper. He was driven down from his home in Pembroke, N. Y., for yesterday's reunion in Lynn, Mass. (AP Photofax)

Gen. Gruenther Draws German, Dutch Criticism

PARIS, April 4 (AP) — NATO's American commander in Europe drew stormy criticism in Germany and Holland today with a reported remark that his forces would have to give up Western Germany in event of war.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme Allied commander in Europe with headquarters near here, was quoted in German newspapers as having said that. He also was quoted as having said NATO's defense line must be drawn in southwestern France.

Misquoted, Spokesman Says

A spokesman at his NATO command post, Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe, told a reporter Gruenther had been misquoted. But West German officials in Bonn and Dutch senators in The Hague had already expressed shock at his reported statements, and Dutch Defense Minister Cornelis Staf had termed it "highly unwise."

The West German and Netherlands government both ordered their military representatives at SHAPE to inquire officially whether Gruenther had been quoted correctly.

The storm blew up the same day NATO forces were celebrating the 7th birthday of the 15-nation organization and the 5th anniversary of establishment of its European headquarters.

"Major Deterrent"

Gruenther himself declared at a headquarters ceremony that the military organization had come to be a "major deterrent" to aggression on the Continent. A half holiday ensued, and he later could not be reached for a reply to the criticisms.

But a spokesman at SHAPE said the published reports did not quote Gruenther correctly. He said they amounted to faulty interpretations of a briefing on the military siuation that the general had given some 20 German correspondents a few days ago.

Twin's Fate Up To Jury

WHEELING, W. Va., April 4 (AP) —A jury hearing the trial of 14-year-old Tommy Williams, Jr. accused of murder in the bludgeoning of a playmate, deliberated three hours today then recessed for the night without reaching a verdict.

The jury of 12 men received the case late this afternoon after three days of testimony and impassioned pleas by opposing counsel.

The State is asking for a verdict of first degree murder with a recommendation of mercy making life imprisonment mandatory.

Tommy, a twin, is charged with murdering David Powell, a 9-year-old Cub Scout, last Feb. 9.

Psychiatrists testifying for the defense yesterday said Tommy was the victim of an oedipus (mother love) complex and killed his playmate because of an urge to do away with his own father.

This theory was scoffed at by Prosecutor Joseph A. Gompers, who in summing up today, said the psychiatrists "were looking for a textbook theory and found sex and pushed the boy into that category."

36 Rebels Killed In North Africa

ALGIERS, April 4 (AP)—Thirty-six rebels were killed in scattered actions in Algeria and Tunisia today and scores of others taken prisoner. Reports said only one French soldier was injured.

In Constantine, Algeria city of 118,000 all Arab shops closed after their owners received threats of reprisals if they remained open. There was a shortage of bread.

The rebels suffered their largest toll of dead east of the city where helicopter-borne troops led a series of attacks against small bands in the mountains and killed 24 rebels.

In the same area last night 23 others were killed and a large quantity of ammunition seized in a single clash.

The most spectacular action in Tunisia took place last night near Gafsa where rebels ambushed three vehicles, including a bus loaded with Tunisians.

The three drivers were carried away. Later their bodies were found with the throats cut.

A fourth person kidnapped by the attackers was missing.

Security forces combed the area and clashed with a group of rebels, killing four of them and taking 16 prisoners.

Sultan, Franco Sign Moroccan Freedom Pact

MADRID, Spain, April 4 (AP) — Palace informants said Gen. Francisco Franco and Morocco's Sultan Mohammed ben Youssef today signed a declaration to free the Sultan's realm from foreign rule.

The ceremony completed the formal granting of independence to all but a tiny international corner of the Sultan's Moslem empire. The excepted part is the Tangier zone, opposite British Gibraltar.

The declaration affirms the end of the Spanish protectorate in Morocco and its unity with the part of Morocco where France is similarly yielding to the Sultan.

The new pact was negotiated in Rabat, Morocco's capital, and was approved by the Spanish Cabinet last night.

The Sultan arrived from Rabat by air earlier today to complete the independence negotiations.

The informants, who are in a position to know, said he and Franco signed the declaration during a meeting at Pardo Palace, Franco's residence. There was no indication when the document would be made public.

Secretary To Leave Friday For Holy Land

American Plan Gets Unanimous Support In Security Council

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., April 4 (AP)—In a rare unanimous vote, the U.N. Security Council today directed Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to undertake a special peace mission to the troubled Middle East.

The Soviet Union joined the Council majority in supporting the United States plan after trying unsuccessfully to modify the wording by a series of proposed amendments.

Israel and her four Arab nighbors—Syria, Lebanon, Egypt and Jordan—pledged their full cooperation.

Hammarskjold immediately accepted the assignment and promised to do his best. He called for support of all interested countries, including those in the Middle East.

Secretary Leaves Friday

"The grave concern about the problems of the Middle East, which has been reflected in the debate, has prompted the unanimous decision of the Council," he told the 11 Council members.

"I share personally this concern and feel that under the circumstances I should not hesitate to assume the responsibility which the Council has wished to put on my office."

Hammarskjold, anticipating the Council's action, already had completed arrangements for a quick departure for the Holy Land. He will leave Friday by plane.

U.S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., April president of the Council, told Hammarskjold:

"As you leave on your misssion, you carry not only our good wishes and hopes but our heartflet confidence, and high regard and great expectations for your success."

Arab Fears Delayed Action

The action came after six long sessions which began March 26. The delay was caused primarily by Arab fears that the scope of the mission might be too broad. They agreed to the plan after Lodge assured them that the secretary general would work strictly within the framework of the armistice agreements of 1949.

This means Hammarskjold will direct his efforts solely to investigating violations of the armistice agreements and seeking ways to make the agreements work better.

Armed Troops, Police Patrol Cyprus City

NICOSIA, Cyprus, April 4 (AP) — Armed troops and police patrolled the streets of Limassol for three hours this morning to guard against possible attacks on British civilians.

Two civilians have been killed and two wounded since Saturday in daylight attacks by Greek Cypriot rebels on Limassol's busiest streets.

Military authorities said the patrols will be routine every Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning so British families can shop in safety.

U.S. Reportedly Achieves Controlled Nuclear Fusion

GENEVA, Switzerland, April 4 (AP)—The Tribune de Geneve reported today from a "well - informed source" that controlled nuclear fusion recently was accomplished in a laboratory in the United States.

The Tribune, which identified its source as a scientist who recently had been in the United States, said the process would be exploited industrially in the United States within the next 10 years.

Nuclear fusion is the reaction which causes the explosion in a hydrogen bomb. The successful laboratory experiment in the United States, the Tribune said, harnessed this tremendous force at a reduced speed.

At the U. N. conference on the peaceful uses of atomic energy here last year, the most optimistic estimate of the time needed to accomplish controlled nuclear fusion was 20 years.

Perfection of the process, the Tribune said, would bring about "a veritable world revolution in the production of energy."

Ike Will Reschedule Education Conference

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP) — Sen. Duff (R-Pa) said at the White House tonight that President Eisenhower plans to reschedule a conference of leaders in the fields of athletics and education to meet in Denver last September. The session was postponed indefinitely when the President suffered a heart attack a few days before it was to open.

Taxation Without Representation Plea Wins Acquittal For Alaskan

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, April 4 (AP) —A plea of "taxation without representation" won an acquittal today for an Alaskan who was charged with income tax evasion.

A federal court jury acquitted Jack Marler after three hours of deliberation. Marler, a former deputy collector of internal revenue, is manager of a highway lodge.

He was accused of failure to file income tax returns in 1951 and 1952.

The "taxation without representation" plea was based on the failure of Congress to grant statehood and the fact that Alaska has no voting member in Congress.

The government did not meet the plea head - on. It contended Marler was using it only as an excuse.

The defense countered with testimony from witnesses that Marler had mentioned testing the tax law's application to Alaska at the time he failed to file returns.

U. S. Dist. Judge Vernon Forbes formerly of Wahpeton, N. D., had instructed the jury that the "taxation without representation" defense was not valid, but that it could be taken into consideration in determining whether there was a "wilful" failure to file returns.

U. S. Atty. Ted Stevens said he did not believe the case was in any way a legal test of the federal income tax application to a territory.

Hilton To Represent President At Wedding

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP) — President Eisenhower today designated hotel proprietor Conrad N. Hilton to be his personal representative at the April 18-19 wedding of Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier III in Monaco.

Hilton, head of the Hilton and Statler hotel chains, is a personal friend of the President. In reply to a question, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen it was his understanding that Hilton had been invited to the wedding before being named to represent Eisenhower.

Farmer Says Threat Against Ike "Empty"

CHICAGO, April 4 (AP)—A disgruntled Wisconsin farmer who wrote President Eisenhower "you have a dangerous killer to deal with" protested today he didn't really mean to harm the chief executive.

"When I wrote the letter I thought it was my last days for living—I was distraught," said John Marek, 39, at a hearing before U.S. Commissioner C. S. Bentley Pike.

Secret agents arrested Marek yesterday on a charge of writing and sending a threatening letter to the President.

Pike ordered him held on $500 bond for investigation by the federal grand jury.

Grace Sails For Monaco; Hopes For Large Family

ABOARD S.S. CONSTITUTION, April 4 (AP) — Movie queen Grace Kelly sailed for Monaco today to marry her Prince.

The blonde princess-to-be said she hoped she and Prince Rainier III would have a large family. She spoke particularly of a son who would rule the principality some day. Either a boy or girl could inherit the throne.

Miss Kelly stood at the railing as the American Export liner Constitution pulled out into New York Harbor and she waved farewell to crowds jamming the pier.

An hour before the Constitution sailed, Miss Kelly met the press.

She had maintained since her surprise engagement during the Christmas holidays that questions about a family were personal and had declined to answer them.

But this time she told 300 reporters and photographers crammed into the pool cafe of the big black and white liner: "My son will be a Monagasque—a citizen of Monaco."

Any child, boy or girl, would prevent the tiny principality on the Riviera from reverting to France, as would be the case if Prince Rainier's family line is broken. Monacans now pay no taxes and are not drafted into military service, but would be subject to both if they became French subjects.

Miss Kelly and the Prince will have a civil wedding ceremony April 18 and a Roman Catholic cermony the 19th.

Ike Says He Won't Insist On "Perfect" Farm Bill

Statement Seen Departure From Talk Veto Likely

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he would not insist on "perfection" in a farm bill.

His comment, at his news conference, was somewhat of a departure from recent talk in the administration that a veto was likely on any farm bill providing for rigid government price supports.

The legislation now being whipped together calls for rigid supports. It also has a soil bank scheme the administration wants.

Eisenhower indicated he might settle for a farm bill containing things he doesn't like, if the overall effect can be considered good.

Sen. Ellender (D-La), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, declared that if Eisenhower does veto the omnibus bill and asks instead for only a soil bank measure. "He is going to wind up with a goose egg."

Ellender and other Senate-House conferees have agreed on a one-year extension of rigid price supports on major crops—something the President and Secretary of Agriculture Benson blame for piling up huge surpluses.

Eisenhower was asked:

"Are you willing to compromise on the price support issue, to get the soil bank through Congress?"

He replied:

"The whole bill has to be in front of me before I can say a word.

"Now, I have never been one to say, to believe, that you must hold up good things in order to attain perfection. We have got to get something good, and in its over-all effect it must not be bad."

The soil bank plan has bipartisan backing. It provides for government payments to farmers who withhold some of their cropland from production of commodities that are already in surplus.

Eisenhower coupled criticism of the rigid price supports with an expression of belief that a good soil bank system will be operating this fall. He said:

"It would be, of course, idle to say or to intimate that the farmers have no problems. They have many, many problems.

"They have had them for a long time, ever since rigid price supports, too long continued, began to build up surpluses and make it almost impossible to work our way out of the problem without seemingly getting in deeper. . . ."

Shepherd Prexy Has Board Date

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 4 (AP)—Shepherd College President O. S. Ikenberry, who has been harassed by student discontent in recent weeks, has a 3:30 p.m. date with the State Board of Education here next Monday.

The agenda for the board session, to continue through Tuesday, has only this notation opposite the Monday afternoon time: "Shepherd College—President O. S. Ikenberry." There was no other comment from the board today.

Reports from the campus in Shepherdstown late in March said that dissatisfaction among students had been smoothed with the naming of several committees to make recommendations on various problems.

One problem developed when students objected to dinner-type music in the cafeteria, and demanded something a little snappier. Dr. Ikenberry attributed one student demonstration to the fact the college had decided not to renew the contract of Dean of Women Valborg Fletty.

On one occasion, the college president was hanged in effigy amid signs reading that "Ike Must Go," and "Fight, Fletty, Fight."

Another major item before the Board of Education next Monday afternoon will be the final action on budgets for the next fiscal year of the nine state colleges and other divisions and agencies under board jurisdiction.

Junior Rangers Expected To Walk

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—To Tim Golding of Hawk Run, Pa., and all the other Junior Forest Rangers:

The U.S. Forest Service is sorry, but it has no horses to give or lend to young Americans who signed pledges to help prevent forest fires and thus become Junior Rangers.

Tim had written the service about getting a horse for use this summer in tracking down possible fires around Hawk Run.

The service is writing Tim saying Smoky Bear, its symbolic fire fighter, walks through the woods and expects his helpers to do the same.

Steel Industry Booms

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—Total employment in the iron and steel industry in February was the highest for any month since November 1953 and the payroll set a record for February, the American Iron and Steel Institute announced today.

The estimated total payroll in February was $317,326,000. The total was $62,200,000 greater than in the same month of 1955. The estimated total employment for February was 683,700 compared with 616,400 a year previously.

Farmer Ties Cow To Waist, Then Has Ride Awakening

SALERNO, Italy, April 4 (AP) — Police said farmer Antonio Liberti was afraid someone would steal his cow while he slept.

He tied one end of a long rope around the cow's neck, left his door open, and went to bed with the other end of the rope tied around his waist.

Bomb Threat Quickly Produces 579 Cops

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—City College had a bomb threat today, and promptly produced 579 policemen out of a classroom.

The 579 were probationary policemen, listening to a lecture on civil law.

An anonymous telephone call informed an operator, "There is going to be a bomb going off in your place today."

Prince's Plan For TV Coverage Is Rejected

MONTE CARLO, April 4 (AP) — Television and newsreel representatives today rejected Prince Rainier III's plan for televising his wedding to Grace Kelly.

They said the rules he wants to lay down would hamstring their coverage, particularly for American viewers.

The Prince insists that he wants no actual filming of his civil wedding on April 18 in the palace and said he would allow only a small amount of footage to be taken after he and Grace say "I do."

He has not been explicit about what he will and will not allow the TV and newsreel men to shoot at the religious rites on April 19.

Microfilm Record Of All Sears Catalogues Given To Library Of Congress

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The Library of Congress today was given almost a mile of microfilm: The complete record of all the Sears, Roebuck mail order catalogues since 1888.

And to those who could remember when the catalogue's chief literary value was as a source material for outhouse jokes the whole thing was a mite confusing. For here was the librarian, L. Quincy Mumford, pleased as anything, saying of the catalogues:

"They are highly important Americana. Many researchers, historians and other writers use these catalogues as source material."

Why? Because, Mumford said, they make one of the "most useful, accurate and, at the same time, fascinating records available of the living standards of the American people from the Gay nineties to the present."

And maybe they do at that.

The covered wagon, for example, that once played such a vital role in the great American story. It hung gamely on in the Sears catalogue until 1924.

In 1907, harness and saddles took up 22 pages. Now they're dismissed with one. In 1896, eager dreamers had 30 pages of buggies to drool over. By 1933, the automobile had chased them out of the catalogue altogether.

The early catalogues are a reminder of many a vanishing, or vanished, social custom. The bosom board, celluloid collar, mourning handkerchief, Prince Albert suit, mustache cups, and where would you turn these days if you wanted to buy a sulky for a goat?

On the other hand, the catalogues record faithfully the new customs. Men's pajamas showed up in 1899, but here Sears was too pioneering for a generation used to sleeping in its long underwear. They didn't appear again until 1908.

And silk stockings first went on sale in 1912. "Treat them carefully," the catalogue said.

D.C. Visitor Who Set White House Fire Identified

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—Secret Service investigators today identified the woman who set five small fires in the White House and nearby executive offices as Mrs. Hilda Marie Marks, 50, of St. Claire Shores, Mich.

U. E. Baughman, chief of the Secret Service, reported through the White House that Mrs. Marks "admits that since 1932 she has been in several mental institutions" in Michigan.

James C. Hagerty, President Eisenhower's press secretary, told newsmen police had checked the identification, given by the woman herself.

Mrs. Marks was picked up yesterday after the fifth in a series of fires was smothered in the Executive Office Building across a side street from the White House. Before being sent to a hospital for mental observation, she identified herself as Mrs. Julia M. Chase, 53.

At that time the woman said she had been born in Hagerstown, Md., but was unable to give her present address.

Hagerty said today she acknowledged having used the Chase name on several previous occasions. There was no explanation for that, nor of why she mentioned Hagerstown as her birthplace. Hagerty said Mrs. Marks actually was born in Ruth, Mich., April 24, 1905.

The press secretary also said Mrs. Marks came to Washington by bus last Sunday and had been staying in a hotel. He didn't say whether she had traveled directly from Michigan. She reportedly could not remember the name of the hotel in which she roomed here.

Hagerty said Mrs. Marks is separated from her husband. He added she has a sister but declined to name her, saying, "We are not going into that for obvious reasons."

BTC Given Five Days To Select Arbiter

BALTIMORE, April 4 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin today put the Baltimore Transit Co. on notice that he will name an arbitration panel himself unless the BTC selects an arbiter to settle its contract dispute.

In a letter mailed to the BTC, the governor gave the firm five days, starting Friday, to name an arbiter under provisions of the seizure law by which the State took over operating of the utility on March 9. State seizure ended a 39-day strike.

The governor signed into law today an amendment to the seizure act giving him authority to name the arbitration panel if either the company or the transit workers union balked at naming arbiters.

Wis. Vote Cheers Both Top Parties

MILWAUKEE, April 4 (AP)—Both Republicans and Democrats found cheer today in the results of yesterday's Wisconsin primary which gave President Eisenhower 55.4 per cent of the total vote, but still saw Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) make the best showing of any Democrat in a decade.

The balloting elected 30 Republican National Convention delegates pledged to the President and 56 Kefauver-pledged delegates who will have 28 votes at the Democratic National Convention. The Eisenhower delegates also are individually pledged to Richard Nixon for the vice presidential nomination.

Republicans were happy with the total cast for the Eisenhower slate, and particularly because of the strength shown in the industrial areas and in prime farm sections where they feared lower farm prices might cut the President's margin.

Democrats were pleased by the fact that Kefauver delegates drew about 42 per cent of the total vote—the best showing made by their party in more than a decade. Four years ago in the primary Democrats polled 25 per cent of the total. Kefauver's slate won all the delegate contests.

The delegate vote in 3,244 of 3,321 precincts:

Eisenhower 428,606.
Kefauver 323,561.

Hoxsey Cancer Treatment Is Worthless, FDA Warns

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The government, in a formal warning to the public, said today the Hoxsey cancer treatment is worthless and in some cases may actually speed the growth of cancer.

The Food and Drug Administration, in a document being published in the Federal Register attacked the work of Harry M. Hoxsey. It marked the first time FDA took precisely such action to warn the public against any medicine or treatment.

Some of the medicine used by Hoxsey contains potassium iodide, FDA said, adding that "there is evidence that potassium iodide accelerates the growth of some cancers." Quite apart from this, it said, the drugs are "worthless" in the treatment of cancer.

At his clinic in Dallas, Hoxsey contended the FDA document is "libelous and slanderous and is filled with lies and half truths." He told newsmen:

"I will go to Washington in a few days to make arrangements for a lawsuit. You can count on that."

Hoxsey said his clinics have 10,000 patients and that he has records "proving that we have been successful, after radium, X-ray and surgery have failed."

However, the FDA said that in its own lengthy studies it has "not found a single certified cure of internal cancer effect by the Hoxsey treatment." In addition, it said the National Cancer Institute reviewed case histories submitted by Hoxsey and could find "no scientific evidence" that the "treatment has any value."

The FDA said the treatment "represents a gross deception to the consumer. It is imminently dangerous to rely upon it in neglect of competent and rational treatment."

The agency said it "has received reports of deaths which occurred after surgery was forsaken in favor of the Hoxsey treatment while the cancer was still operable and where surgery promised excellent prospects of cure."

Cherry Blossom Fete Gets Weather Assist

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The Capital's annual cherry blossom festival got an assist today from the weather. A high temperature of 85 made this the warmest April in Washington since 1892.

The warm sun gave assurance that the pink and white blossoms, just now emerging on the cherry trees dotting capital parks, will be in full flower for much of the six-day festival, which opened yesterday.

A torchlight parade through the downtown section was scheduled tonight to entertain local residents and the thousands of visitors who have flocked to the city for the seasonal attraction.

Scores of high school and college bands and drill teams are here for national competitions held in connection with the festival.

The original lyrics of "The Yellow Rose of Texas" were written by Josiah Moody Fletcher of Nashua, N.H., and included in a volume published by C.C. Parker of Nashua in 1890.

Demos See Wis. Vote Indicating Farm Belt Gains

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The strong showing of Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) in the Wisconsin presidential primary was interpreted generally today as indicating Democratic gains in the farm belt.

Kefauver ran about 105,000 votes behind President Eisenhower in an arms-length popularity contest in which each was entered in his own party's primary. Returns from 3,236 of the state's 3,321 precincts gave Eisenhower 426,408 and Kefauver 321,830.

Ike Wins 55% Of Vote

In a state where Eisenhower got 61 per cent of the vote in the 1952 general election, the President was cut down to about 55 per cent of yesterday's total in the two primaries. Kefauver got 42 per cent of the over-all vote. John Chapple, running as a GOP favorite son candidate opposed to Eisenhower's foreign policies, fielded about 3 per cent.

Unopposed in the Democratic primary, Kefauver collected 28 Democratic National Convention nominating votes and gained some ground in that contest. He now has 65½ convention votes, more than five times as many as Adlai E. Stevenson, with 11½.

Demos Rely On Farm Vote

But Kefauver's showing, unusual as it was, did nothing to demonstrate that he could beat Eisenhower in November in a farm state with Republican leanings.

Democratic hopes for a November victory are based to a great extent on the belief that dissatisfaction in the normally Republican farm areas of the Midwest is sufficient to carry some of those states into the Democratic column in the presidential race.

Eisenhower declined at his news conference today to analyze the Wisconsin vote. But he said it was "idle to say or to intimate that the farmers have no problem."

Fugitive Captured By Citizens' Posse

EASTON, Md., April 4 (AP) — A fugitive from the work gang, suspected of a string of burglaries in Queen Anne town, was captured today by a citizens' posse as he crouched in a patch of honeysuckle.

Charles D. Williamson, 45, who escaped from a Maryland House of Correction work gang at Jessup Feb. 27, was taken by a group of six farmers.

Taylor Messix of near Queen Anne, the leader, said Williamson had a loaded rifle but made no attempt to use it.

The fugitive was brought to the Talbot County Jail here and was questioned by Sheriff Raymond Carroll.

Secretary Of State's Problems Grow Larger As World Shrinks

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP) — Sometimes that itinerant diplomacy salesman, John Foster Dulles, must yearn for the good old days, when a secretary of state stayed put, and business was carried on leisurely by mail.

Now diplomacy, at least as practiced by Dulles, is always on the go. And while it may solve problems, it may also create some.

Dulles put his finger on one such small problem at the start of his 40-minute news conference yesterday. For some time, he said, he had been eager to invite the French Foreign Minister, Christian Pineau, to visit the United States.

Finally the invitation was delivered successfully. The two diplomacy drummers bumped into one another not in Paris nor in Washington, but in far away Karachi.

The topics covered at today's news conference seemed to point up the fact that as the world shrinks a secretary of state's problems balloon.

Dulles was asked to comment on such troubling news as:

French Premier Guy Mollet thinks we've been too haughty and have done too much preaching.

The Netherlands don't like a speech Dulles made in Jakarta.

And so on. If anybody thinks the United States is doing a fine job, no reporter mentioned it today.

So John Foster Dulles stood there, hand in his pants pockets, talking a little like a college professor who is being heckled, mildly, by his students.

Sometimes his words were smoothing, such as when he dealt with Iceland's problem. How would we feel if we had six million non-English speaking troops here? Dulles said the situation facing Iceland is comparably the same—considering it's small population—and so is quite understandable.

Sometimes his words were philosophic. As he hurries about the world, he said, he hears a great deal of criticism. This is the greatest tribute this country can have, Dulles said. For it means that any other nation feels free to speak its piece any time without fear of reprisals.

Well, if that view is correct, it was a comforting day. Tributes seemed to be pouring in from all sides.

But somehow Dulles' looks belied his optimistic words. He did not look like a man accepting bouquets. Mostly, he was sombre, and he seemed unusually careful in his replies to make sure that if he didn't find the correct word he at least used an inoffensive one.

Certainly while flying about the world, conscious that any brush fire can set off a worldwide conflagration, Dulles must look back with a bit of envy to the leisurely pace of diplomacy in the old days.

For example, Secretary of State Thomas Jefferson sent William Carmichael to Madrid, and then never heard from him.

In March, 1791, Jefferson finally lost patience. "Your letter of May 6, 1789, is still the last received," Jefferson wrote, "and that is now two years old. A full explanation . . . is expected."

Government Ups Starting Salary For Engineers

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP) — In an effort to recruit 8,700 engineers and certain types of physical scientists for government work within the next year, the Civil Service today again increased the starting pay for such persons in the lower grades.

This was the third such increase within a year for the announced purpose of putting government pay levels on a more competitive basis with private industry.

The commission said the new starting pay for persons having the qualifications wanted will be $4,480 annually instead of $4,345 in Grade 5 and $5,335 instead of $4,930 in Grade 7. The higher rates were estimated to cost $4,424,000 a year if the government gets the men it wants.

In both instances the starting pay has now been hiked to the top limit permitted by law—a level normally gained only after several years of service within the grade. The basic starting pay for Grade 5 is $3,670 and for Grade 7 it is $4,525.

Employes now in the two grades who meet the required qualifications will automatically have their pay increased to the new starting levels. The commission said this will affect about 1,200 in Grade 5 and 2,800 in Grade 7.

The Grade 5 jobs are open to persons with a bachelor's degree and those in Grade 7 to persons with a master's degree or its equivalent in experience.

McKeldin Signs 18 Bills And Vetoes 10

Governor Okays Transit Dispute Arbitration Plan

BALTIMORE, April 4 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin signed into law today a special session bill giving him the power to appoint arbiters in Baltimore's protracted transit dispute.

The governor signed 17 other bills and vetoed 10 as he completed action on enactments of the 1956 General Assembly in both its regular and special sessions.

Among those measures the governor vetoed were a bill that would have created a State Department of Economic Development, and another which would have abolished the boards of managers of the State's training schools for juvenile delinquents.

Among the bills he approved were those which:

Require court permission to tap telephone or telegraph wires.

Impose the State's use tax on raw materials.

Permit employes of a firm closed down for vacation or inventory to qualify for unemployment compensation even though they do not seek other employment in the meantime.

Set up a new scholarship program to stimulate training of public school teachers.

The utility arbitration measure the governor signed today was an amendment, passed during the special session of the Legislature, to the utility seizure bill enacted at the regular session earlier.

It permits the governor to name members of an arbitration board which has power to settle the issues in a utility wage dispute, such as those that led to the recent Baltimore Transit Co. strike.

The Transit company, which opposes compulsory arbitration, is expected to contest the amendment in court. It already has asked for a court test on the original seizure law, under which the State is now operating the Baltimore transit system.

The bills were signed in the governor's Baltimore office today with a minimum of ceremony. House Speaker Luber, Senate President Goldstein, a number of legislative and administration aides and a group of newsmen and photographers were present.

The scholarship bill, signed by the governor sets up 152 State-Financed scholarships for students training to become teachers. Payments of as much as $500 per student are authorized, but recipients must pledge that they will teach at least two years in the State's public school system.

Governor McKeldin had detailed statements to make in explaining his reasons for disapproving the planning and development and the training school bills. For the most part, the other bills were vetoed because they duplicated or were superceded by other enactments.

In a message accompanying his veto of the training school managerial board bill, the governor admitted that there is "considerable logic in the position that the State Department of Public Welfare, charged with responsibility for general administration of these schools, should also have the authority and responsibility of day-to-day management. . ."

"I believe, however," the governor continued, "that the possible advantages in retaining separate boards of managers has not received adequate attention. These personal and devoted attention to the affairs of the particular schools under their respective management is well known to me.

"Retention of separate boards for each school, even if restricted to an advisory capacity, could well provide more adequate and efficient visitation and correspondingly, more effective and intelligent consultation with and advice to officials of the Department of Public Welfare. . ."

McKeldin said he had rejected the bill to create a department of research and planning because, among other reasons, "we now have functioning the commission on state programs, organization and finance, made up of public-spirited and well-informed private citizens and members of the General Assembly.

"It is the purpose of this commission to make a thorough study of each department and agency of the State and to make recommendations to the General Assembly and to me as to needs for any future changes in their organizations and functions.

"The State Planning Commission will, of course, have the benefits of such a study, and it seems to me that it would be poor policy and even a breach of trust for us to enact a change as expansive and as radical as that proposed in House Bill 25 without awaiting the results of the study that is to be made by a very capable group of men and women . . ."

He said that "even if the need for a State Department of Economic Development should become evident in the future, I still would be opposed to making it a part of the State Planning Commission, which already has important functions and duties from which it should not be diverted by a new, time consuming activity . . ."

EDMONSTON, Md., April 4 (AP)—A 14-year-old boy hit a housewife on the head with a baseball bat when she surprised him in her home today.

Mrs. Katherine Marie Schafer, 23, was treated at Prince Georges General Hospital for a head cut requiring nine stitches.

Police said the boy told them he was looking for money to help pay for an operation for a younger brother.

The boy was sent to the Maryland Training School for Boys pending a hearing in Hyattsville Juvenile Court.

Man Allegedly Socks U.S. Tax Collector

BALTIMORE, April 4 (AP)—A preliminary hearing is scheduled for April 12 for Daniel J. McCarthy of Potomac, Md., charged with assaulting an Internal Revenue agent.

Internal Revenue headquarters here said that after McCarthy's automobile had been seized last Friday for nonpayment of about $700 in federal taxes for 1948-52, McCarthy hit a collection officer in the mouth, loosening his front teeth.

The collection officer was Edward Phillips of Silver Spring.

Cause Of Jet Plane Crash Undetermined

BALTIMORE, April 4 (AP) — Air Force investigators examining the charred wreckage of a T-33 jet trainer said today there was no immediate explanation for the crash that killed two Air Force officers.

The two, Maj. Gen. Floyd Bernard Wood, 47, and his passenger, Capt. Gail A. Pelton, 29, plunged to their deaths shortly after taking off last night at Friendship Airport.

The crash occurred shortly after 7 p.m. as fog hugged the ground. At 8:30 p.m., takeoffs and landings at the airport were called off because of poor visibility.

The two were on a flight to Eglin Air Force Base, Fla.

BALTIMORE, April 4 (AP)—Maryland's newest state senator is George B. Rasin Jr., of Chestertown, named today to the Kent County seat made vacant when John R. Jewell was appointed to the Tidewater Fisheries Commission.

10 Arrested In Cambridge Lottery Raids

CAMBRIDGE, April 4 (AP)—State Police and officers from Baltimore and Cambridge staged coordinated raids on five places in Cambridge today and arrested 10 persons on lottery charges.

Altogether, 17 policemen took part.

State's Atty. C. Burnham Mace, who directed the operation, called it the biggest ever pulled in Dorchester County.

Bond of $5,000 each was set for the 10 Cambridge Negroes who were charged with conspiracy to violate the lottery laws.

All were taken to the county jail.

Six State Police detectives from headquarters at Pikesville, five other officers from the State Police Easton Barracks, five city officers from Cambridge and one from Baltimore joined in the forays.

All met in cars for a briefing on the Talbot County side of the Choptank River Bridge. From there they fanned out to carry out their assignments.

They raided three homes, a gas station and a grocery store.

At the home of Hansel Green, raiders said they found two slot machines, a large amount of money, an adding machine, coin wrappers and numbers slips.

At the home of Durham Clash a fire was going in a fire-place when raiders arrived. Detective Sgt. P. F. Smith of the State Police, said he pulled some burning slips from the fire-place. In addition, between $700 and $800 in cash, adding machines and more lottery slips were confiscated.

Numbers slips or books were taken at the other places, authorities said.

Mace estimated $2,000 in cash was picked up in the raids in which these others, in addition to Green and Clash, were arrested:

Linda Clash, Martha Young, Ed St. Clair, Carroll Hall, Norma Lee Bayneum, George Francis Cornish, Albert P. Young and Ed Junior Marine.

Ex-Convict Convicted Of Raping Little Girl

ROCKVILLE, Md., April 4 (AP)—A 23-year-old former convict was convicted today of raping a 3½-year-old girl in Silver Spring last November.

The verdict was reached after an hour and a half trial of George L. Cole Jr., before a three-judge court without a jury.

The maximum penalty is death. Chief defense attorney Barnard T. Welsh immediately summoned to the stand witnesses who testified as to Cole's mental and psychiatric condition after the lawyer told the court he wished to offer testimony in mitigation of punishment.

Tunisian Leaders Playing Cagey Game With France

PARIS, April 4 (AP) — Tunisian leaders who have just won the promise of independence from France are playing a cagey game.

For one thing, they want to see what comes out of current French-Moroccan talks before details of a vaguely worded French-Tunisian pact are spelled out.

For another, they want to know whether interdependence and independence can be compatible.

In a now slightly past era of foreign rule, the gambit from the ruling side to a restive land was usually a promise of internal autonomy. Now the French have got it down to one word—interdependence.

That is the key word in the current delicate negotiations. Tunisians wonder whether this may be more than just an added syllable away from actual independence.

Under interdependence, as viewed here, the French will try to hold onto all they can profitably and the Tunisians and Moroccans will try to be independent while keeping profitable relations with France.

The two French North African protectorates have been governing their actions toward the French by their reactions toward each other. What one wins is the basis of a claim by the other in their increasingly successful bid for independence from French control.

On June 3, 1955, French and Tunisian leaders signed a convention granting Tunisia internal autonomy. But France still held the reins on Tunisia's foreign relations, army, and communications while promising to turn over control of the police gradually.

Even so, Tunisia had more independence than French Morocco. Throughout last summer and in fact until recently Moroccan nationalist extremists stepped up their violence against French rule.

France began negotiating with Moroccan nationalists. Finally on March 2 Paris formally recognized Moroccan independence under conditions of so-called interdependence still to be worked out. France retained the right to maintain an army and its own diplomacy in Morocco.

Morocco's Sultan Mohammed Ben Youssef, whom the French first exiled as pronationalist, then permitted to return, made a stern demand for anti-French violence to cease.

Even the last holdouts among the rebels in the Riff Mountains near the Spanish Moroccan border apparently heeded the call, packed their rifles, and returned to their hideouts to await developments.

But the Tunisian moderates who had negotiated last June's agreement were in hot water. The extremists said these negotiators had given in to Paris too easily and demanded as good terms for Tunisia as the Moroccans were about to get.

New French - Tunisian talks climaxed March 17 with the signing of a draft—called a protocol—generally in line with the Moroccan pact.

French-Moroccan talks to spell out interdependence have started. The negotiations with Tunisia are expected to follow the same pattern.

Homes Abandoned

SANTOS, Brazil, April 4 (AP) — Thousands of residents have been ordered to abandon homes on the seven hills of Santos because of landslide danger. The orders followed studies of cloudburst-landslide damage on four hillsides and 41 resultant deaths last week.

New York Man Lodges Billion Dollar Claim Against Russia

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP) — Michael Paul Kosolapoff has a claim of more than a billion dollars against the Russian government but his chances of collecting that much are not good.

Kosolapoff is the champion claimant, dollarwise, in the big stack of applications looked at so far by the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission.

The filing deadline was midnight Monday for U.S. nationals who had claims against the Soviet government prior to Nov. 16, 1933, or in certain cases Russian nationals.

The claims stem mainly from the losses Americans suffered in Russia's big changeover from a czarist to a Communist government.

The U.S. government has slightly more than nine million dollars in Russian assets which the Communist government many years ago assigned for payment of such claims. Subsequent efforts to get more from Moscow have proved unavailing.

Kosolapoff, who lives in New York City says that during the 1917 revolution the Reds expropriated his property and caused him to flee for his life, "having been threatened with death."

Kosolapoff says the Soviets took from him property totaling $1,025,000,000.

Committee To Boost Study Of Science, Engineering

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP) — President Eisenhower, reacting to reports that Russia has more scientists and engineers than the United States, set up a 19-member national committee yesterday to foster the development of such specialists.

"Our technological superiority is now seriously challenged," he said, "by those who use science for aggression and conquest."

He named Dr. Howard L. Bevis, president of Ohio State University, as chairman of the new committee. Dr. Eric A. Walker, dean of Pennsylvania State University's College of Engineering Architecture, was named vice chairman.

Latest available figures show the Soviet Union has 890,000 engineers and scientists while the United States has 760,000, according to a recent report by the Library of Congress to the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee. The United States graduated 53,500 of them in 1954, the report said, as compared with 104,000 for Russia.

In his letter to Bevis, the President said it is his hope the new committee will:

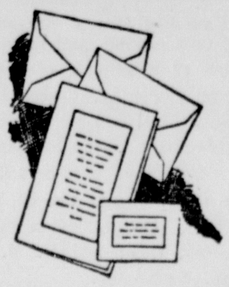

1. Assist the federal government in identifying problems associated with development of more highly qualified scientists and engineers.

2. Enlist cooperation of all interested individuals and groups in analyzing the problem and in developing programs to deal with it.

3. Publicize the problem and possible solutions with the view to stimulating widespread public understanding and support.

Social Pressure Causes Much Overindulgence

WINNETKA, Ill., April 4 (INS)—Fear of being considered a "square in social circle" makes many men and women over-eat, over-drink and over-smoke, in the opinion of a leading psychiatrist.

Dr. Leo H. Bartemeier of Washington, D. C., said today contemporary business practices and social etiquette are "contributing to the development of obesity and alcoholism in individuals pre-disposed toward these conditions."

Among the "opportunities for over-indulgence" singled out by Dr. Bartemeier were business and professional luncheon-meetings and dinners served by too-generous hostesses.

Dr. Bartemeier said the business luncheon is usually arranged to save the time of busy persons and improve the exchange of ideas in a social atmosphere, but added:

"There is a pressure to conform to the social behavior of others in these situations. One who declines to join with others in some of these gatherings is apt to draw attention to himself, to be questioned about his not drinking and to be made to feel that he is either mildly disliked or at least that he is disfavor.

"There are groups in which the non-drinker may even be ridiculed or otherwise embarrassed."

Over-generous hostesses are also putting "social pressure" on dinner guests, Dr. Bartemeier said, explaining:

"The pressures to eat and drink all that is offered are so great that one cannot accept dinner invitations if one is determined to adhere consistently to prescribed dietary restrictions.

"To abstain from drinking and to eat sparingly when being entertained has come to signify unfriendliness, frank impoliteness or even an insulting way to behave."

Dr. Bartemeier stressed, however, these "social customs and pressures" were only contributing factors to the overindulgence problem. He said:

"They are of less importance than the internal personal factors which are both psychological and physiological, and peculiar to each individual.

Dr. Bartemeier, a professor of psychiatry at Georgetown University and past president of the American Psychiatric Assn., spoke at the North Shore health resort in Winnetka, Ill.

Two Boys Drowned When Boat Upsets

GRAFTON, April 4 (AP) — Two boys were drowned yesterday when their boat upset in Tygart Valley River, about 200 feet below Tygart Dam.

Fire Chief John Proctor identified the victims as Rex Dalton, 12, of Park View on the river's banks, and Paul Coston, 15, of Webster.

Proctor said the boys were alone in the boat when it upset in about eight feet of water about 20 feet from shore. He said the current was swift and cold.

Republicans In Political Trouble In Corn-Hog Farm Belt Of Indiana

By JACK BELL

INDIANAPOLIS, April 4 (AP) — Republicans are in political trouble in the corn-hog farm belt of Indiana. Whether President Eisenhower's name at the top of the ballot can save their state ticket won't be determined until November.

Democrats dispute GOP contentions that Eisenhower is as popular as in 1952. Then he carried the state by about 335,000 out of nearly two million votes.

Most Republicans don't agree with Gov. George N. Craig, who heads the Eisenhower faction in Indiana's split GOP, that "we would have won this year without Eisenhower but he will greatly increase our majority."

Republican Sen. William E. Jenner, at odds with Craig, had a different view.

"Without Ike we wouldn't have had a chance," Jenner said. "With him on the ticket, we'll be all right."

On the Democratic side, National Chairman Paul M. Butler, who lives at South Bend, predicted the Democratic presidential nominee will sweep the state. He said his party will defeat Republican Sen. Homer Capehart and win a majority of the state's 11 congressional seats. The Democrats now hold only two.

Butler said the issues in Indiana are "the President's collapsible farm program....the plight of small business....and the disturbing effects of our constitutional processes caused by the Eisenhower administration's strange affinity for rule by regency, as a substitute for presidential leadership."

Democratic State Chairman Charles Skillen puts the emphasis more directly on corn and hogs, which he said are selling in the market place at half what they were a year ago.

Whether disgruntled farmers are going to attach the blame for this to Secretary of Agriculture Benson, or take it out on Eisenhower himself, Skillen doesn't profess to know now.

Capehart says confidently that Eisenhower is "as strong as horse radish" in Indiana. He adds that "people who don't like a lot of things still like Ike." He said he is glad for Eisenhower's help but had been elected to the Senate twice without it.

Capehart predicted the Republican ticket will draw a greater share of labor votes, mostly concentrated in the Lake Michigan area near Chicago, than it has in the past.

GOP State Chairman Alvin C. Cast says frankly he is going to pump the "peace and prosperity" slogan, despite the fact that farm income is down.

On this score, Gov. Craig reported state gross income tax collections will set an all-time record for the first three months of this year. He said there is "virtually no unemployment in Indiana now."

But Claude Wickard, former secretary of agriculture who is expected to be the Democratic senatorial nominee against Capehart, thinks "unrest, dissatisfaction and disappointment" in the farm areas will break the political backs of the Republicans.

Signed By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—President Eisenhower has signed a bill setting aside land in Kentucky for creation of a monument to Daniel Boone and other pioneers.

The seven acres at Boonesboro goes to the Pioneer National Monument Assn. It plans to erect a historical marker near old Fort Boonesboro, named for the famous explorer and Indian fighter.

U.S. Tax Collections Up 2 Billion In 1955

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service today reported its tax collections in 1955 totaled $69,294,764,000. This compared with a total of $67,322,691,000 for 1954.

State totals included (1955 figure listed first, then 1954):

Family Of Five Found Dead In Cleveland Flat

CLEVELAND, April 4 (AP) — A family of five was found dead last night in a second floor flat.

Police said the father, mother and three young children apparently had been accidentally asphyxiated by carbon monoxide gas last week.

The victims were identified as Emory Hall, 37, a sheet metal worker; Evelyn Hall, 25, his wife, and the children, Gary Lee, 7; Emory Jr., 4, and Linda, 2.

Russia Will Probe Wallenberg Mystery

MOSCOW, April 4 (AP)—The Soviet government has promised to continue inquiry into the fate of the Swedish diplomat and Red Cross representative, Raoul Wallenberg, who disappeared in Budapest in 1945, Prime Minister Tage Erlander of Sweden said today.

A demand for investigation of Wallenberg's disappearance reportedly was one of Erlander's main purposes on his current visit to the Soviet Union.

The Wallenberg case long has been a political issue in Sweden and is one of the few flaws in Sweden's relations with the Soviet government.

The United States exports about two per cent of the passenger automobiles its produces.

It is estimated that the average family of four eats more than 11 pounds of meat a week.

Baltimore Library Is 'Rebel'

By ROBERT McHUGH

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Enoch Pratt library is a rebel among its kind. It advertises book wares in 12 display windows like a department store. Inside, it is also like a highly educational store.

Education, information, inspiration and entertainment are hawked over the counters by librarians with almost missionary zeal. Pratt methods have been spreading throughout the country because the library trains many librarians. Directors of public libraries in Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Los Angeles, Queens, Kansas City, Springfield, Mass., Norfolk, Va., Manchester, N. H. and other cities were trained there. Experts rank it as one of the best.

It offers more varied services than many libraries and intrudes aggressively on the community not only through 26 branches but through a bookmobile program.

Business men drop in for lunch-hour lectures on science, nutrition, or world affairs. It sponsored a writers' forum.

Director Amy Winslow believes, "Democracy is good for libraries," and staff members share in policy, planning, administration and budget decisions.

It was fondly referred to as "my school" by the late H. L. Mencken.

The philosophy department once got a telephone call from a woman who wanted "an explanation of existentialism" as a conversation piece at dinner less than an hour away. The science department found a recipe for shrimp salad for 30 people which "doesn't use too many shrimp."

A reporter found the address of a Cedar Rapids, Iowa friend—out of town and even foreign telephone directories are standard equipment.

Normal services revolve about a million and a quarter books, 12,000 records, 600 films, 390,000 pictures, 17,000 slides and film strips. You can hear speeches by famous men, get sound effects for a play, hear a recording of a Broadway show or use two telescopes on the roof.

Baltimoreans use and return an average of nearly four books each annually and pay two million dollars a year tax money for the privilege.

COMFORT—Shoppers pause at the Enoch Pratt library for rest, a smoke and to catch up on their reading.

LONACONING — "The Minister's Aunt", a comedy play, will be presented on April 18, at 7:30 p. m. at the First Presbyterian church by the Adult choir. A silver tea will also be held.

Williams Is Wistfully Available For Top Place On Demo Ticket

By JACK BELL

DETROIT, April 4 (AP) — Amid preparations to bid for a fifth term as governor, G. Mennen Williams has run up rods to catch the lightning if a storm breaks over the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Michigan governor is wistfully available for first place on the ticket. He probably wouldn't turn down an invitation to run for vice president.

He has pocketed Michigan's 44 convention nominating votes while he eyes the primary battles between Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Williams' presidential antennae picked up quickly the reaction to Stevenson's prestige-tarnishing experience in the Minnesota primary.

To the Michigan governor and his friends the results indicate the door has been opened wider to favorite son candidates, since they apparently do not believe that Kefauver is likely to wind up as the party's top nominee.

Any further serious loss of prestige by Stevenson in the Florida and California primaries would be almost certain to result in a decision by Williams to take the wraps off friends in other states. They have been advised thus far not to try for delegates for him outside Michigan.

The thought would be that even if Williams couldn't win the top prize, he would be in line for second place if Kefauver proved more successful than he was in 1952.

National Committeeman Ernest J. Lacey says there will be a Williams boom at the August Chicago convention.

"If anything catches on fire there this time, it won't be the auditorium, it will be Williams," Lacey declared.

Williams himself is not so optimistic at this point. He indicated clearly he thinks only some relatively unexpected developments would bring him into the picture.

"I say, and I mean it, that I'm not a candidate for the presidency at this time, but if the party calls I would accept," he said.

He disclosed, however, that he has staff aides working to draft a Williams platform on national issues which he probably will make public before the convention. He said he felt called upon to develop such a "positive" program because of his own criticism of Stevenson's "moderation" philosophy.

"I feel it is that natural heritage of the Democratic party to be liberal, progressive and forward looking," Williams said. "Democrats have won when they have had a bold, progressive program. We can win again on that kind of a platform and we must have it."

Williams, who led the fight for the controversial "loyalty oath" at the 1952 convention, said he expects no revival of that party-splitting row.

But he made it clear he and others of like views are not in a mood to compromise with Southerners who oppose the Supreme Court's ruling for racial integration in the public schools.

"The Supreme Court's decision must be the law of the land everywhere," he declared. "No part of the country can be allowed to subvert it. The President has the obligation to enforce it. Congress cannot be allowed to undermine it."

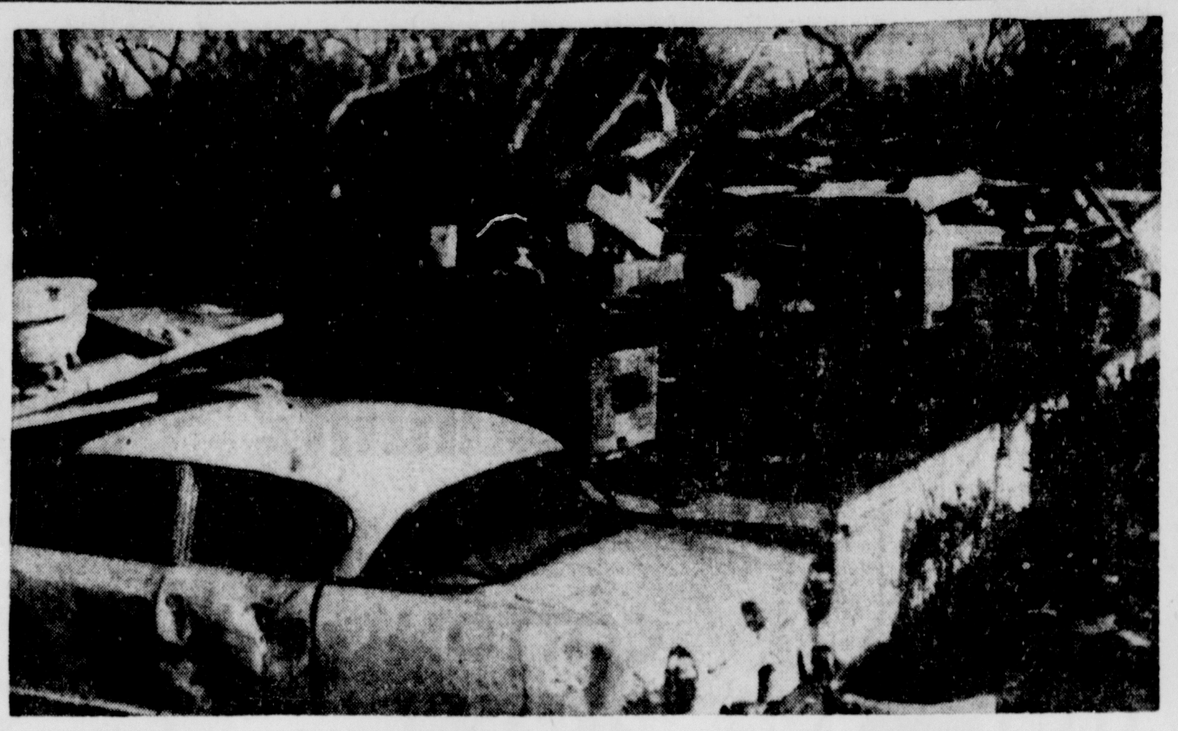

Williams' national ambitions necessarily must take second place to his obvious intent to run again for governor. He won a third two-year term in 1952 by a margin of only 8,618 votes while Eisenhower was carrying Michigan by 320,000 out of nearly 2,800,000 ballots.

He won a fourth term in 1954 by a margin of 253,000 votes.

Although he hasn't announced officially for re-election, Williams is likely to go to the national convention as the state's Democratic nominee for governor. That may pose a problem for any national nomination since Michigan law specifies that a nominee for governor may be withdrawn only by death or transfer of residence to another state.

Williams' friends obviously believe Stevenson retains major strength among rank and file Michigan Democrats. Kefauver has been in the state frequently and Lacey said the Tennessee senator has many friends, particularly among union men.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York draws almost no mention here.

Cops, Cabbies Brawl

TOKYO, April 4 (AP) — Off-duty cops and taxi drivers gathered at a seaside park to drink in the view of cherry blossoms and the brew of sake (rice wine).

A cabby trod on the toe of a cop and a battle was on. Each side later withdrew with its wounded. Then a taxi passed a police bus en route home and a sake bottle crashed the bus window. Fifty police and 30 cabbies figured in the reprise.

Eight police and four cabbies went to hospitals for head injuries. A dozen others were bandaged. All will live.

Justice Dept. Decides To Halt Tax-Fix Inquiry

ST. LOUIS, April 4 (AP)—The Justice Department, rejecting a grand jury's recommendation, has decided to end the grand jury's inquiry into tax-fixing in the Truman administration until a case against two former government officials is tried.

Matthew Connelly, presidential appointments secretary in the Truman administration, and T. Lamar Caudle, former head of the Justice Department's tax division, are to go on trial here May 7. They are charged with conspiring to defraud the government. Harry I. Schwimmer, former Kansas City attorney, also is a defendant in the case.

Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell, in a letter to U. S. Dist. Judge George H. Moore which was filed in court yesterday, outlined the government's present plans in connection with the tax inquiry.

Last week the federal grand jury here reported to Judge Moore that the Justice Department was trying to stall the inquiry. The jurors said they were being sidetracked in their efforts to determine whether there had been tax fixing in high places in the Truman administration.

"But most of all we want the court to know that we feel the tax scandals investigation should be actively continued at the present time to cover as much ground as feasible before expiration of our term of office," the grand jury told Judge Moore. The present grand jury's term expires in July.

Brownell's letter was in reply to the grand jury's charges.

He said that a continuation of the grand jury hearings, with possible publicity connected with the appearance of important witnesses, would hamper efforts to give Connelly and the other defendants a "calm and unbiased" trial.

Brownell also said the attorneys assigned to try the Connelly, Caudle and Schwimmer trial are the same ones assigned to direct the work of the grand jury.

He said the department will continue to work on the investigation while the trial continues and will be prepared to help the grand jurors when the hearings resume.

"No evidence will be lost," Brownell said.

400 Gallons Of Bootleg Whisky Confiscated

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—Federal agents seized 400 gallons of bootleg whisky last night.

Melvin Noble Conrad, 28, Negro, was seized by the agents as he loaded some of it into a Cadillac 50 feet from a basement distillery.

Agents said a 75-gallon copper still was bubbling at the time of the raid.

Transit Conference

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—District of Columbia officials conferred today with Capital Transit Co. representatives on the possibility of keeping the company in business next August.

Under legislation enacted by Congress during last summer's 52-day transit strike here, the company's franchise will expire at midnight Aug. 14.

B&O Pushing Installation Of Gates Here

The engineer of grade crossings for the B&O Railroad has told Mayor Roy W. Eves plans are being drawn and material ordered for installation of automatic signals at four local crossings.

Eves said the information came from D. A. Steel in Baltimore, and added it will require approximately one year before the installations are in service.

Authorization for installation of the automatic devices was given to the railroad company Monday by the Mayor and Council. Cost is estimated at $100,000 which will be borne by the railroad. The signals will be synchronized with traffic signals on Henderson Avenue with the railroad reimbursing the city for this cost. The city, however, will be responsible for maintenance.

Plans for installation of the warning lights, bells and gate protection are contained in a brochure prepared by T. J. Klauenberg, Cumberland Division superintendent of the B&O, which was made available by Mayor Roy W. Eves.

It shows the following:

At Knox Street, equipment will consist of flashing light and gate in the southwest corner of the crossing and a similar signal and gate in the northeast corner.

Each gate will be erected back of the sidewalk so that the gate arm will lower over the sidewalk and half of the street. This is half of the street used by vehicles approaching the tracks. Street gates will not be installed in the northwest and southeast corners since these are exit corners of the crossing. However, special sidewalk gates will be installed to protect walks. A bell will be installed. A four-way traffic light will be erected at the intersection of Knox and Henderson. A one-way light will be installed west of the crossing. These lights will be connected to a treadle in Knox, east of Henderson, so vehicles on Knox can change the lights long enough to enter or cross Henderson during normal conditions of traffic. Traffic lights will be interconnected to crossing signals so they will be changed properly to let vehicles on Knox move from the crossing into Henderson Avenue when a train is approaching.

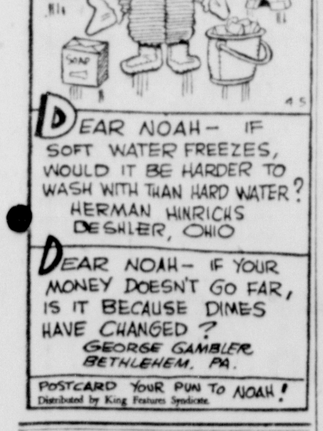

At Valley Street, the plan is to erect a flashing light signal and a combined street and walk gate in the southwest and northeast corners, and walk gates in the northwest and southeast corners. Installation will include a bell. It will also include a four-way traffic light on Henderson and a one-way light on the west side of the crossing which will be connected with treadles in Knox Street to let vehicles enter or cross Henderson under ordinary conditions; and with the crossing signals to let vehicles on the crossing enter Henderson when trains are approaching.

At Pear Street, it is also proposed to install flashing light signals, combined street and walk gates in the southwest and northeast corners, sidewalk gates in the southeast corners, a bell, a four-way traffic light at Henderson, and a one-way light west of the crossing with traffic lights connected to treadles in Pear Street for ordinary traffic conditions and with the crossing signals for approaching trains.

The Franklin Street crossing will not have traffic lights since this street does not intersect Henderson; but the crossing will be protected by flashing lights and street gates in the southwest and northeast corners with sidewalk gates in the northwest and southeast corners and a bell.

The gates are motor driven to obtain quick, certain action in any kind of weather. Arms are held vertical when not in use and when lowered, reach to the center of the street to stop vehicles approaching the tracks without blocking vehicles leaving the tracks.

Signals and gates are inspected by the same forces that maintain the signals that govern train operation and with the same regularity. The result is that signal failures are rare. If a mechanical failure does occur, as with a broken rail, the system will operate on the safe side by causing lights to flash and the gates to lower and remain lowered until the trouble is corrected.

Cooperation Is Promised On Potomac River Work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army engineers say they have assurances of cooperation from four states and the District of Columbia for their development survey of the Potomac River Basin.

Col. Ray Adams, Washington district engineer, reported Tuesday after a meeting in his office that Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania will back the engineers' investigation.

The survey will include a complete study of flood control possibilities, water supplies for all purposes, pollution abatement, recreation, fish and wildlife preservation and power development.

Included will be a review of the engineers' controversial plan for development of the river basin with 14 dams and reservoirs.

Present at the meeting were Dr. Raymond V. Long, director of Virginia's Department of Conservation and Development and Gen. H. D. Holmes, chairman of the department's Water Resources Division; E. A. Elevatorski, principal hydraulics engineer of Pennsylvania's Department of Forestry and Water; David Auld, director of sanitary engineering for Washington; Ellis S. Tisdale, director of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, and representatives of area planning groups.

Aides to Adams said Maryland and West Virginia representatives were unable to attend the meeting but that those states' cooperation had been pledged earlier by their governors.

The meeting was called to form the nucleus of an advisory committee representing the five jurisdictions to aid the study recently programmed by the engineers in response to a resolution passed by the senate.

League Group To Meet

Flynn Praises School Guards

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn yesterday issued a statement commending the manner in which students of Johnson Heights Elementary School are handled at the various street crossings in that area.

Chief Flynn's statement follows:

"I want to publicly commend the leaders of Johnson Heights School for the orderly manner in which students are handled at the time of dismissal.

"I am sure it took a lot of time and effort on the part of those responsible to drill and teach the soldierly manner in which the students march to the various crossings where they are expertly maneuvered across the streets by the School Guards.

"I have watched and marvelled many times how alert and conscious these guards are before allowing the children to cross at the various intersections and this can only stem from the high calibre training received from their teachers. Parents of students attending Johnson Heights might well be proud of this service."

Iceland Changes To 'Neutralism'

Iceland has given the United States a fresh reminder of how greatly the world picture has been changed by the shift in Soviet tactics since last July.

Like the big powers, this small nation has been anxiously reappraising its position in the light of the Russian decision to put more emphasis on economic penetration than on armed aggression. The Icelandic parliament has called for the withdrawal of U. S. armed forces stationed there under a treaty signed in 1951.

Perhaps not too much significance should be attached to this change in Iceland's attitude, though it will leave a vital position in the North Atlantic defense chain virtually defenseless. Iceland has no army or navy of its own. No nation relishes having foreign troops stationed on its soil, unless there is clear and imminent danger of attack.

The resolution insists that Iceland has no intention of altering its close and friendly relations with the Western powers and that it intends to continue to cooperate with NATO.

But whatever the Icelanders' reasons may be, this drift toward neutralism is sure to delight the Russians and dismay the Western democratic powers. The mere fact that the United States has spent $150 million on the defenses of Iceland in the past four years is a measure of its importance to the West.

Iceland is a refueling station for aircraft flying between North America and Europe and it is a vital stop for military air transport on this route. Three radar stations there are a key link in this country's early warning chain. Iceland lies midway between Moscow and New York.

Iceland's government has fallen, but there does not appear to be any reason to hope that a new government will reverse the decision. Iceland, despite its protestations of friendship, has gone "neutral."

These Days

The Daily Worker Seizure

Now that some time has elapsed, it is right to ask what the Treasury believed it was accomplishing by the seizure of the Daily Worker, and the Communist party headquarters. On the face of it, the Treasury seems to have accomplished nothing. The Daily Worker never stopped publishing, not even for one day. Even if the Treasury got $2,500, it is doubtful whether that will enrich the United States or impoverish the Communists who seem to be able to collect funds to stay alive. The Daily Worker was published in the same building, the Treasury apparently not knowing that Die Freiheit is as much an organ of the Communist party as the Daily Worker.

If the object of the Treasury was to suppress the Daily Worker, it exceeded its authority under the law and violated the First Amendment to the Constitution. If its object was to collect an income tax, it only raised the question in the minds of many citizens as to whether this is a proper method for collecting unpaid taxes. Surely if this is the ordinary method, then Congress should act immediately to make it extraordinary and unlawful. If a premise is to be searched, a search warrant should be issued by a court after due process. If property is to be seized, it should be seized after a trial, so that due process is not violated. Neither the Treasury nor any other administrative agency of the government should possess arbitrary powers to act as prohibition agents acted and it should be noted that the excesses of governmental action, as much as a thirst for beer, brought on the repeal of the 18th Amendment and the Volstead Act.

Actually, the Treasury for several years has been studying the problem of tax exemptions by organizations not entitled to this privilege. This particularly applies to Communist organizations which raise money by various means without ever making reports either publicly or to the Treasury as to the details of contributors and expenditures for which a form is provided and an annual report required under the law. The Daily Worker runs at a loss and if they ever told the truth about contributors and expenditures, it would be found that certain Communists as well as non-Communist fellow-travellers provide funds for the deficits. If these persons take these contributions as income tax deductions, they are violating the law.

The Communist party's claim that it had made income tax reports each year is either true or false. The Treasury statement on the subject is not clear because its agents do not feel that they are obligated, as public officials, to explain what they were doing, which is a wrong attitude to take as it serves the Communists, who conduct a worldwide propaganda, setting forth their position whereas the Treasury gives the impression of unbelievable confusion, Washington stating that they do not know what New York officials are doing and why. It may be that the law and regulations forbid these officials to make statements to the press; in which case, they ought not to take steps which require well-considered and carefully prepared statements to the press.

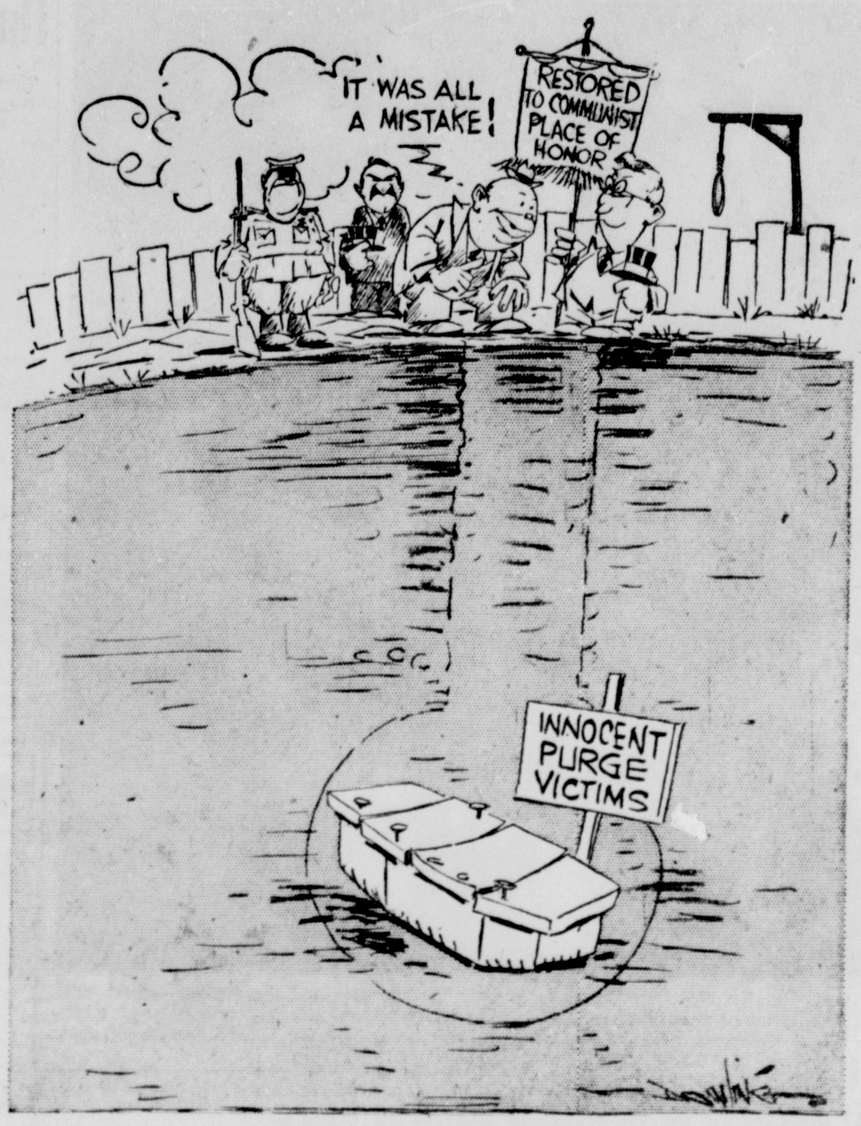

It is interesting to note that the FBI, which is the most expert organization in the government on the subject of communism and Communist organizations within the United States, took no part in this situation. This division of governmental operations is unfortunate. Where there should be cooperation, there seems to be competition. If these cases have to go to the courts, it must be the Department of Justice that carries the cases forward. Why then did the Treasury not first consult the Department of Justice? The facts, so far as we can get them, is that a New York office of the Internal Revenue Service did not even consult the Treasury in Washington.

In a matter of this sort, at this particular moment in our international relations, it might have made some sense to consult the State Department. The question that really arises is whether we have a government or only a bureaucracy. Have we sunk to the irresponsibility of France?

Personally, I do not object to the imprisonment of every Communist in America, provided it is done by due process of the law and without violating the Constitution. The Constitution is more important than collecting $2,500 for the premises of the Daily Worker.

"Hello Down There, We've Good News For You"

Democrat Boss Finds Short Memory Convenient

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Politics sometimes finds short memories a convenience. The other day Chairman Paul Butler of the Democratic National Committee made a speech before a group of lawyers in Washington which might have been made by a Republican 20 years ago.

Mr. Butler was talking about "federal administrative law." He was referring to the immense powers which federal commissions and boards have over the rights and properties of citizens. He declared that in the last three years under the Eisenhower administration there had been "continuing departures" from the original purposes of the agencies and the laws creating them, and that the present administration had accomplished what he called "repeal by appointment." This is a method, he says, whereby administrative officials "with a prior record of opposition to certain statutory policies have been rewarded with the assignment of administering those policies."

Forgot Roosevelt Letter

But Mr. Butler has forgotten the famous letter by the late President Roosevelt by which he removed the late William E. Humphrey as a member of the Federal Trade Commission because "your mind does not go along with mine." The Supreme Court in 1935, by a unanimous decision, denounced that action as an interference with the operations of a quasi-judicial commission and held the removal invalid.

Again and again, the Roosevelt administration and later the Truman administration "packed" both the courts and the administrative boards with partisans — persons with preconceived ideas of how the law should be administered. The Republicans protested agains this again and again but to no avail.

Scarcely a board or commission in Washington in the 20 years of Democratic rule contained men appointed solely for their knowledge of the subject. It was usually a reward for political service. Again and again criticism was voiced that, where the law required "bipartisan" appointments, the Democratic administration would pick out Republicans who leaned toward the Democratic administration's point of view.

Excuse Not Valid

At one time — under the New Deal and the Fair Deal — more than 95 per cent of the judges on the federal bench were appointed from the Democratic party. The excuse usually made was that, because the power of appointment was vested in the President and the Democrats were in power continuously for 20 years, it was natural that there should be more Democrats than Republicans. But in past administrations presidents of the United States have felt that they must select the men best qualified for the post rather than look to their own party always for such selections. In no other time in American history has any political party had as many as 95 per cent of those appointed to the federal bench who came from one political party.

Mr. Butler in his speech referred to the National Labor Relations Board and stated that two of its members and a general counsel had been appointed whose background "stamp them unmistakably as lifelong advocates and partisans of management and unsympathetic to the full and fair application of the collective bargaining and organizational rights that Congress had set out in the National Labor Relations Act."

This assumes that men with a background knowledge of labor disputes can never be impartial and must necessarily be ineligible for service on the board if, for example, they have served as corporation lawyers.

To generalize with an attack on all appointments made by the present administration, on the ground that they comprise appointees who are disqualified because of previous experience, is to say that only men without experience in a particular field — such as labor-management relations — shall be appointed to federal boards and commissions.

One of the reasons why the Democratic party has been losing ground with many independent voters is that it has insisted on a partisan-type of government in which men of business experience are barred and only theorists — persons often with preconceived judgments that lack practicality — are appointed. The difference between those with actual experience, either in the law or in business problems that confront government, and those who have had no experience whatsoever is often revealed in the time it takes for many of these same appointees to learn their jobs.

Long Arduous Struggle

The most significant factor, however, in the controversy over "administrative law" was not touched upon by Mr. Butler in his speech. For years the Democratic administration felt that the commissions and boards should have an unlimited right to determine cases on the basis of the "facts" as they saw them. For many years even the right to review the acts of administrative commissions and boards was denied or limited by the New Deal laws to such an extent that these same boards and commissions became instruments of autocracy. It was only in later years, upon the protest of the opposition throughout the country — mostly lawyers — that statutes were finally enacted safeguarding the rights of the individuals who appear before governmental boards and commissions.

The struggle to establish "due process" under administrative agencies has been a long and arduous one, and the abuses of the Bill of Rights were quite numerous for many years under the Democratic administration. Now that there are proper safeguards in the law, there is an artificially inspired cry about improper appointees. It probably will be heard often on the stump in the coming campaign.

The Democratic party critics will not be satisfied until they can again "pack" all the governmental commissions and boards and, if by chance the Democrats should win the 1956 election, it is a foregone conclusion that they will remake many of the boards and commissions under the New Deal formula of partisanship.

How It Happened

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Arthur "Bugs" Baer is the originator of some of America's most-often-repeated sayings. In the absence of his regular column—"Baering Down On the News"—because of his illness, The Cumberland News is presenting Baer's own explanations of how he came to coin some of the more famous of his sayings.

"An amateur is an athlete who won't take a check."

Bob Considine pointed out that this has popped up again in the Wee Santee-AAU-Supreme Court olympics.

Bob started in Washington almost 20 years after I'd left there—and it was in Washington that I wrote the line about a Georgetown athlete who didn't take checks.

He was the greatest football played in Georgetown history and was a triple threat with options. He could run, kick and drink.

I saw him stop Jim Thorpe 11 times in the open field. The 11th time they rolled over the goal line together and Jim sat up and patted the 145-pound cash-and-carry athlete on his head.

The kid was in Georgetown on a muscle scholarship. He had a job in the library. Once a month he wound the clock. In the clock was $40 for a 30-day supply of food.

Would you call him a professional?

Anyway, he never took a check, until World War I as a captain of infantry. He gathered most of our war medals fighting the start of communism around Vladivostok.

Demo Leaders Meet In Pittsburgh In Do Or Die Effort For Stevenson

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Some of the big Democratic bosses backing Adlai Stevenson got together in Pittsburgh shortly after Adlai's defeat in Minnesota to try to figure out what they should do.

The meeting was held at the invitation of Mayor David Lawrence of Pittsburgh, one of the stanchest Stevenson backers. Col. Jake Arvey of Chicago was invited, also Carmine De Sapio, head of Tammany Hall, though neither could make it.

However, Jim Finnegan, former leader of the Democrats in Philadelphia, together with other Stevenson leaders, attended.

Its net result was a decision to back Stevenson to the bitter end and knock Kefauver off at any cost. The leaders were confident they could deal Kefauver out of the nomination at the convention, no matter how many primaries he wins. Their attitude was one of let the public go hang. They talked of controlling the convention through Speaker Sam Rayburn, apparently counting on Rayburn's well-known bitterness against Kefauver.

As for Stevenson's chances in November, the bosses told each other that almost any Democrat can win as long as Nixon stays on the GOP ticket.

Mailbag

Milton Bellis, New York—It is true that I had something to do with getting a job for John Maragon in the folding room of the House of Representatives. It is also true that I had something to do with sending him to jail. The facts in my columns on Maragon's highhanded manner in using Gen. Harry Vaughan to throw his weight around Washington still stand.

However, when a man has served his punishment, I see no reason why he should be persecuted. So, when I learned that officials on Capitol Hill were afraid of hiring Maragon because of criticism from me, I told them I hoped they would give him a job. He's been out of work for a long time. I understand he's working hard now, and I hope he makes good.

Alf M. Landon, Topeka, Kans.—I appreciate your writing me that you are not Governor Hall's adviser and that he stands on his own feet. However, that isn't exactly what the governor told me. He paid great tribute to you as his friend and counselor.

J. Edgar Hoover, Washington—Thanks for your note making it clear that it was Assistant Attorney General Warren Olney, not you, who delayed from December 30 to March 14 in answering Congresswoman Edith Green of Oregon that irregularities she charged in the Morningside Hospital in Portland failed to indicate violations of a federal criminal statute. I note that the FBI reviewed Mrs. Green's information on January 12, where it waited for a reply until March 14.

George Humphrey, Secretary of the Treasury—Thanks for your letter sent me at the request of Vice President Nixon, that he did not visit the President at Thomasville, Ga. Though my original information regarding the geographic location of their talk came from a member of the White House staff, I am sure you, the host at Thomasville, are in the best position of all to know the truth, and I am delighted to set this fact straight.

Evan Kemp Jr., Lexington, Va.—President Eisenhower stated in his press conference shortly after he announced his availability for a second term that he had conferred with Vice President Nixon and suggested that he "chart out his own course." After the New Hampshire write-in for Nixon, Eisenhower made a brief statement that he would be happy to have Nixon on the ticket. He then shut off all further questions at that time and as to future press conferences. Nothing has been said since, and it is now up to Mr. Nixon to chart his own course and for GOP leaders to help him chart it. They and Eisenhower will actually have much more to say about it than Nixon will.

Earl Griffis, MacClenny, Fla.—At no time have I published a statement that Senator Smathers owned natural gas stock. It was reported in Washington that one of the two Florida senators owned such stock, but Mr. Smathers informs me that neither he nor his wife owns stock, and I accept his word. It is correct, of course, that Senator Smathers voted for the gas bill, now vetoed.

H. J. T. Hogan, Caracas, Venezuella — The Society of Friends (Quakers) of which both Vice President Nixon and I are members, recently approved in its 276th yearly meeting in Philadelphia the right of a former Communist, Mary Knowles, to plead the Fifth Amendment. Mrs. Knowles had been retained as librarian for the Quaker-sponsored community library by the Plymouth Quaker meeting despite her refusal to answer questions put to her by Senator Eastland (D., Miss.). The Fund for the Republic later contributed to the Plymouth meeting because of its stand.

The 276th yearly annual meeting, attended by 500 representatives from 93 Friends' meetings, also adopted a "minute" critical of loyalty oaths. It stated: "It is central to our faith that we obey God rather than men."

"In our day the right to hold unpopular views in a period of stress has deep religious implications for us. We . . . share in and seek to alleviate the suffering of victims of civil liberties infringements."

The yearly meeting also directed its Civil Liberties Committee to counsel with and seek employment for the 34 Philadelphia public-school teachers who were discharged for being Communists on the ground that it is the duty of Friends to help those who are suffering no matter how their convictions, religious or political, may differ from others.

"Much is heard of the American ideal of free enterprise as it applies to business," said Dr. Henry Cadbury, chairman of the American Friends Service Committee, "but not as it applies to ideas. In the days of our founding, the pressures were for religious conformity. Now there has come upon us almost imperceptibly, pressure for political conformity."

They Mean To Fight

By Joseph Alsop

LONDON

In the absence of any clear lead from Washington, the present British government has been making up its own mind about what to do if worst comes to words in the Middle East. The resolve is to fight if need be, and even against heavy odds.

As already reported, for example, the situation in Jordan is regarded here as immediately critical. In Jordan, King Hussein's abrupt dismissal of Gen. Sir John Bagot Glubb has opened the way to a pro-Egyptian, anti-Western coup which would depose King Hussein in favor of a young officer's junta like the one that now rules Egypt.

Faced with this possibility, the British cabinet has sought to keep the situation in hand by continuing their subsidy to Jordan despite the humiliation of Gen. Glubb's dismissal. None the less, the odds are thought here to be rather heavy that a coup in Jordan will be attempted soon.

Favorable Circumstances

Circumstances certainly are favorable, in view of the leanings of the present Jordanian cabinet, the changes in command in the Arab Legion since Gen. Glubb's enforced departure, and the degree of Communist penetration.

Faced with this likelihood of a coup in Jordan, the British government has tentatively decided to intervene. They will join the Jordanian civil war if it is really a civil war. Everything will depend on whether the existing order has enough remaining support in the Arab Legion and elsewhere, so that there is a serious loyalist faction which the British can assist.

If there is such a faction to assist, the British mean to assist it with the two or three regiments of British troops stationed in Jordan. In the final pinch, they may also send the parachute brigade which has been moved for the purpose to Cyprus.

This conditional but somewhat desperate resolve has been taken about the danger in Jordan because of the British estimate of the situation in Iraq. King Feisal II of Iraq is the cousin of King Hussein of Jordan. King Feisal's prime minister, the brilliant but aging Nuri es-Said, is strongly pro-Western.

Danger Could Increase

Yet once again the existing order is strongly threatened by anti-Western, pro-Egyptian forces, which are working beneath the surface with active Communist assistance.

The danger in Iraq will be enormously increased if the danger next door in Jordan is not successfully averted. Protecting the position in Iraq is the real motive of the conditional British resolve to intervene in Jordan. It is also the real motive of the otherwise puzzling British insistance on stronger American support for the Baghdad Pact. The idea is to strengthen Nuri es-Said and King Feisal.

Finally, the protection of the Middle Eastern oil source is the real motive of the British desire to protect the position in Iraq at almost any cost. Iraq itself is a major oil producer. A defeat in Iraq would produce immediate danger in neighboring, oil-rich Iran, which was so narrowly saved from the Communist Tudeh party only a few years ago.

What is chiefly feared in London, in short, is the stage by stage loss of the oil sources which are the true lifeblood of these islands. The gravity of the British view is clearly suggested by another conditional resolve that has been taken here. If everything else in the Middle East goes, the British government means to hold the Sheikdom of Kuwait by naked force if need be.

Practical Policy

This last ditch policy is practical though unattractive. The population of Kuwait is not large enough to resist effectively. Kuwait alone has enough oil, if the tap is turned on a little harder, to meet the needs of Britain and Western Europe for a good many years to come. Even so, there might be very great difficulties if the Egyptians sought to retaliate by closing the Suez Canal to oil tankers from Kuwait. This is entirely imaginable. Again, it can be quite positively stated that the Soviet ambassadors in Egypt and Syria have promised Soviet military intervention in the Middle East if any Western power intervenes there, either in the manner outlined above or in order to prevent a renewal of the Arab-Israeli fighting. And the Soviets may mean what they are saying.

Altogether the outlook is not pretty. The simple fact that such plans are even being prepared in London proves the acute peril to the Western Alliance of the state of drift that prevails in Washington. If the Eisenhower administration dislikes the policy that is being desperately worked out here—and this would certainly be understandable—then the Eisenhower administration has an inescapable duty to come forward with a positive, practical Middle Eastern policy of its own, which will probably be greeted with sighs of relief by the British.

New Salve, Bandage For Junior Now On Market

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A new salve is available for those who hit a finger with a hammer or stub a toe on the curb. It combines hydrocortisone with neomycin and is said to induce immediate relief of pain. The ointment is rubbed gently into the bruised area for at least two minutes at intervals of one to three hours.

X-ray is recommended when a fracture is suspected. Whether or not a bone has been broken, faster healing will occur if a protective splint is applied. It is left on longer when a bone is broken. The do-it-yourselfer can make his own splint or use a new plastic type that is strong yet flexible.

Cuts on the skin should be washed with soap and water until all the dirt is removed. A soapy washcloth may work better, particularly when grit is ground into the tissues. There is no need to apply an antiseptic. Simply cover with a sterile bandage and let nature do the rest.

There is a new colored plastic adhesive bandage to cover Junior's cuts. It is medicated on the inside and the outside is red, green, yellow and blue. The bandage is advertised as a "Battle ribbon" suitable for boys and girls in the four to eight age group. Mother can give her little sufferer a decoration for bravery.

A pocket sized telephone amplifier came on the market recently to help the hard of hearing. It can be used on any phone. The gadget contains two small batteries or three transistors and amplifies sound by approximately 49 decibels. The deafened person no longer need hold the receiver against the hearing aid during a phone call.

The Chicago Heart Association is offering practical advice to victims of cardiac disease. The housewife is taught by consultants how to simplify housework and conserve energy so that normal activities can be performed safely. The association also gives lectures and demonstrations on the preparation of law salt menus.

Many local heart societies sponsor summer camps for the young cardiac patient. This is a valuable excursion for these youngsters because it helps teach them how to live with their affliction.

COFFEE FOR OLDSTER

F. D. writes: I'm 89 and in good health but have trouble keeping awake while reading. Recently I started drinking a cup of coffee with meals and it makes me more alert. Will I harm my health by this practice?

REPLY

No. If a cup of coffee with meals keeps you alert during the day and does not interfere with your sleep at night, I see no reason for you to stop taking it.

NOT UNCOMMON

J. L. writes: Is an occasional pus cell in the urine serious?

REPLY

No. A few white blood cells (pus cells) are not unusual and their significance is questionable.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Mere mention of the name of Howard Hughes, millionaire toolmaker and movie tycoon, makes Hollywood folk rush to tell you scores of stories about his rather unconventional behavior. Hughes is notoriously careless about his attire; seeing him for the first time, visitors often refuse point-blank to believe that the unshaven, sloppily dressed young man with the soiled, scuffed white sneakers can possibly be one of the richest and most powerful figures on the West Coast.

At one time, the whirlwindy Hughes went on a long-distance telephone kick, tying up the only booth in a Los Angeles drug store for hours at a time. The indignant druggist, unaware of the tycoon's identity, finally ordered him from the premises.

Hughes soon had the phone company install a second booth. "Satisfied now?" he asked.

The druggist was not only satisfied, but speechless . . . He had tried vainly for two years to get that second booth!

Utilities Group To Meet Friday In Baltimore

The Maryland Utilities Association will hold its annual business conference in Baltimore Friday at the Lord Baltimore Hotel. The association, organized in 1922, is composed of representatives of public utilities in Maryland and the District of Columbia.

George M. Nelson, president of the Eastern Shore Public Service Company, Salisbury, and president of the association, will report on the organization's activities during the past year. Nelson said the officers and directors for the coming year will be elected at this meeting.

According to Nelson, the speakers scheduled to appear and their topics are as follows: Everett J. Boothby, president, Washington Gas Light Company, "Underground Storage of Naturad Gas"; Richard Harkness, news commentator for the National Broadcasting Company, "Bhind The Scenes In Washington"; Leon F. Roberts, director of information, United States Independent Telephone Association, "Little Things Mean A Lot"; Charles W. Smith, public utility consultant in Baltimore, "The Future of Utility Regulation."

Among the utilities officials from Baltimore who are serving the association this year are Austin E. Penn and Charles P. Crane, Consolidated Gas, Electric Light & Power Company; Dale Barratt, Baltimore Transit Company, and W. Griffin Morrell, Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland.

About 500 members and guests of the association are expected to attend.

Income Tax Deadline Nearing

The deadline for filing your federal income tax return is nearing, with eight office days remaining.

Charles B. Chandler, designated representative of the Baltimore District Director, yesterday said business at the local office in the Post Office building is rather steady.

The tax assistance days will be Mondays and Fridays from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. through April 16. Assistance will be rendered on days other than the designated days, but taxpayers visiting the office may have to wait longer as the staff will be limited.

C. I. Fox, director of the Baltimore District, points out that it is a good idea to avoid the last minute rush and avoid costly errors. Thus far over 45,000 taxpayers have sent in imperfect returns. "Don't let erroritis get you," he advises.

Check the following before mailing your tax return:

Is the name and address printed?

Have you included all proper dependents?

Are all W-2 statements attached?

Is your arithmetic correct?

And above all, is your return signed? If a joint return is made both signatures must be affixed.

AF Education Plan Is Aired

The education program of the U. S. Air Force makes it possible for young men without a high school education to gain a high school completion certificate.

Sgt. James C. Owens, Air Force recruiter for this area, announced yesterday that young men who have attended college have an opportunity to complete their education under "Operation Bootstraps," a program where the Air Force pays the major share of the bill, paying full salary and allowances while in college.

More than 50 per cent of the airmen in the Air Force are high school graduates and nearly half the officers have a college degree or its equivalent, St., Owens added.

Army Assigns Enlistment Quotas Here

During the month of April, the local Army Recruiting Station has limited quotas for enlistment, according to Sgt. DeNeal Phillips, recruiter in charge. Applications will be accepted on a first come, first served basis, according to qualifications, he noted.

Airborne Divisions will accept only seven men; Army Medical Corps only three; Army Security Agency four; Corps of Engineers, one; Military Police four; Ordnance Corps, five; Quartermaster Corp, three; Signal Corps, nine; Transportation one; while Armor, Artillery and Infantry, as last month, remain unlimited.

Thirteen spaces have been allotted the Cumberland Area for enlistment directly into the Eighth Infantry Division. This division is now training at Ft. Carson, Colo., and will move as a unit to Europe to relieve the Ninth Division sometime this summer.

Phillips noted that the Army will accept enlisted men directly into special courses of training and schooling. There are 150 technical schools open for direct enlistment for men and women who can qualify. These range from auto, diesel, airplane, and helicopter mechanics to radio, radar, guided missiles and nuclear energy.

Two men were accepted for enlistment last week. Elwood K. Sturtz of Wellersburg, Pa., enlisted for three years in Ordnance and was assigned to Fort Jackson, S. C., for processing and assignment. James P. Hall, this city, enlisted in Armored for three years and also went to Fort Jackson for his basic training and assignment.

ANNAPOLIS, April 4 (AP) — The Court of Appeals today heard a case involving a Cumberland used car lot and one of its workers.

The Cumberland Motor Sales sought reversal of an Allegany County Circuit Court decision which awarded Frank E. Hilliker workmen's compensation for an aceident he incurred on the lot. Hilliker was injured when the lid of an automobile trunk fell on his back while he was working.

The company contended the claim was not filed within the prescribed time limit.

Lonaconing Opposing Gas Rate Boost

Mayor And Council Write Protest Letter

LONACONING—The mayor and council here has gone on record opposing the proposed hike in gas rates by the Cumberland and Allegany Gas Company.

During a regular meeting of the Mayor and Council Tuesday the town clerk was instructed to write a letter to the Public Service Commission voicing opposition to the proposed boost.

The proposal was made by Mayor Virgil Alexander and unanimously supported by members of the council.

In other council matters, a motion was made and seconded to place a traffic control light at the corner of Main and Douglas streets, located in the heart of the community's business district.

The light will be installed on a trial basis and if it proves satisfactory it will be left at the intersection permanently.

Police officers of the community were instructed to use discretion in the juvenile curfew now in effect in Lonaconing, especially on nights when a high school activity or teen-age dances are held.

Children under 16 years of age are required to be off the streets by 10 p. m. unless accompanied by their parents.

SS. Peter & Paul Wins CYO Title, Beats St. Frances, 75-57

Mike Firlie Paces Victors In Title Tilt

Captain Scores 27 Points For Winners Who Bag 3rd Crown

With Captain Mike Firlie showing the way with 27 points, Coach Bob Mattingly's SS. Peter and Paul cagers, upended St. Frances of Keyser last night on the Allegany High School floor to capture their third straight Catholic Youth Organization basketball championship. The final score was 75-57.

The two teams had split even in their first four meetings with St. Frances winning twice while compiling a 12-0 second half record. The SS. Peter & Paul quintet evened the score with a 12-0 second half mark while downing St. Frances twice.

Last night's rubber fray saw the victors hop off to a 20-8 first quarter lead, but St. Frances rallied to trail by six markers, 32-26 at halftime.

Another 20 point splurge in the third quarter put the winners ahead to stay, 52-39 at the close of the stanza. They outscored St. Frances 23-18 in the final period.

Firlie, who later was voted the most valuable player on the SS. Peter and Paul squad by the players, hooped 12 field goals and three fouls while excelling with his floor play as he led his mates to victory over Coach Dee Cesare's tossers. Julian Shonter and Larry Burns sparkled with their rebounding for the victors.

Coach Mattingly later entertained his charges at a small party at his home in honor of the triumph. It was the third straight championship for Mattingly's cagers and their third in the 10-year history of the league.

St. Frances, a member of the circuit this year for the first time, had two players tally 20 points in a losing cause with Mike Melody and Bob Shaw each hitting the double figure. The lineups:

Bell Is Shocked By Navy Attitude

Can't Understand Stadium Concern

PHILADELPHIA, April 4 (AP)—Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League said today he was "astonished" at the attitude of the U. S. Naval Academy in the dispute between Navy and the Baltimore Colts of the NFL over the use of Municipal Stadium in Baltimore.

Navy has objected to the Colts playing the Washington Redskins in the stadium one day after the Middies meet Notre Dame next fall. Officials at Annapolis claim their contract with the city of Baltimore prevents anyone from using the field five days before and one day after the Navy-Notre Dame game.

Bell, reached in Atlantic City, N. J., where he is taking a brief holiday, said that "Navy's attitude in this matter "is beyond my comprehension."

The commissioner said he understands that the Colts' contract with the city park board allows the Colts to play on the date in question, Nov. 4.

"If Navy is concerned about the Colts-Redskins game hurting the attendance of the Navy-Notre Dame game, professionall football must have come a long way," said Bell.

Joe Huske Signed By Chicago Cards

CHICAGO, April 4 (AP)—The Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League today signed their third rookie quarterback for next season, Joe Huske, formerly of Southern Illinois University and now at Fort Belvoir, Va.

Huske in 1953 was third among the nation's collegiate passers with 91 completions in 180 tries for 991 yards and 6 touchdowns. In military service, Huske quarterbacked Fort Belvoir to victories over the Quantico Marines in the Colonial Bowl, and Shaw Air Force in the Conch Bowl.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 4 (AP)—Outfielder Roberto Clemente had three hits in three attempts today to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-2 victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

The Pirates sewed up the victory in the second inning when they scored three runs off losing pitcher Art Ceccarelli.

Veteran Max Surkont, who gave up one run and five hits in the first six innings, was credited with the victory.

New Stadium For Giants To Seat 110,000 People

$20,000,000 Plant Outlined For N.Y.

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—A $20,000,000 covered stadium on stilts seating 110,000 was outlined today by Hulon Jack, president of the Borough of Manhattan.

The stadium, chiefly intended for the New York Giants whose lease of the Polo Grounds expires in 1962, would be built by private capital on the west side of New York over the tracks of the New York Central Railway between 60th and 72nd Streets.

"It is the kind of a stadium which would be large enough to hold the Olympic Games of 1964 or an Army and Navy football game and other attactions where huge crowds gather," Jack told a luncheon of the Sports Broadcasters Assn.

The vast structure, embracing escalators from the ground level, parking space for 20,000 cars, and even a helicopter landing field, is still in the dream stage but Jack is convinced it is practical.

The stadium would be a triple decker and part of the stadium area might be set aside for radio and television studios.

When the Giants' lease on the Polo Grounds expires it is expected that the land will be sold for a housing development. There have been reports the Giants might use Yankee Stadium, which is directly across the East River from the Polo Grounds.

The Manhattan stadium, if built, would be the largest in the country although still much smaller than the Rio de Janeiro Stadium which accommodates close to 250,000. The Polo Grounds holds only 52,000.

Brooklyn has already been given legislative approval to create a sports authority to finance a big dome covered structure for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Army-Navy Mat Teams To Clash

ANNAPOLIS, April 4 (AP)—Army and Navy begin another athletic rivalry next season with the scheduling of the first wrestling match between the two service schools.

Capt. Elliott Loughlin, Navy's athletic director, announced the meet, which will give the two schools dual competition in 15 different sports during the academic year.

He said Navy wants to arrange the first match here in Navy's new gymnasium now under construction.

Army and Navy meet here March 2, 1957, in basketball, rifle and squash and at West Point in swimming, gymnastics and pistol.

The Cubs pried loose three runs from effective Erc Palica in the seventh off Hobie Landrith's homer.

U.S. Olympic Team To Enter All Contests

Will Battle Russia On Every Front

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP) — "We will meet Russia on every front," the executive director of the U.S. Olympic Assn. said today in announcing that a 325-member team would leave around Nov. 6 for the Olympic Games in Melbourne.

"I have been reading that Russia will dominate the games with 400 athletes and that the United States may have to cut some corners for financial reasons," J. Lyman Bingham added. "That is so much poppycock.

"We will send to Australia the strongest and largest squad possible—at least as large as necessary. We don't intend to give any quarter in size and strength."

Bingham compiled a list of Olympic tryout sites and dates extending through most of the summer.

"There is one possible exception," he said. "That's field hockey. It's not considered a major Olympic competition and there's even doubt that Russia will enter a team. We are undecided on the matter."

The tall, white-haired Olympic official said present plans call for the team to leave Los Angeles in five giant trans-oceanic airplanes starting Nov. 6 "or therearound."

Asked whether the Soviet Union would outnumber us in competitors, Bingham said:

"They may, but I don't see how they can. Under the new Olympic rules, no country can carry along spares—or substitutes. Except in team sports, which also will have limited squads, a country may nominate only the men or women expected to compete in an event. If something happens to prevent that person competing, there can be no replacement.

"I figured out last night that the absolute maximum that a country may have is 395. When you consider that teams will use the same competitors for things like the 100 and 200 meter dashes and the field events, it's easy to see that the maximum won't be necessary.

"We figure we can send 325 and have full strength in every competition."

U.S. Olympic officials will be limited to around 50 under the new rule that officials can't exceed 15 per cent of the number of athletes.

"The overall operation will be close to a million dollars," Bingham said. "We figure a little more than $2,000 per man."

20th Masters Tournament Opens In Augusta Today

85 Golfers Scheduled To Begin Play, No Favorite Is Named

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 4 (AP)—The 20th Masters, an exclusive tournament including the greatest golfers, starts tomorrow with every prospect that it will be the finest as well as the biggest ever played.

That's a broad statement because the comparatively brief history of the Masters is a record of sharp competition and superb play. From the beginning in 1934, when Bobby Jones invited some of his best-known golfing friends to help celebrate the opening of the new Augusta National Course, to last year when Cary Middlecoff tamed the matured and tougher Augusta National, the Masters has produced an almost unbroken succession of stirring finishes.

Record Number To Start

This year, with a record number of 85 golfers scheduled to start and without a standout favorite in the lot, almost anything could happen—from a repetition of the three-way 1954 struggle among Sam Snead, Ben Hogan and amateur Billy Joe Patton to the shattering of Hogan's tournament record of 274.

The four players who have accounted for all but one Masters title since 1946—Hogan, Snead, Middlecoff and Jimmy Demaret—head most of the listings of likely winners. They're all playing well and they're thoroughly familiar with the big, beautiful course that requires a lot of knowledge. But of these four only Middlecoff played in enough winter tournaments to maintain a fine competitive edge. And he was among the first to say this will be the widest-open Masters in recent years.

Snead Three Times Winner

Snead, a three-time Masters winner, hasn't played much more than Hogan this winter. Demaret, playing unusually well this year for a 45-year-old golfer, has made more frequent and usually successful appearances on the winter tour and Middlecoff, another on-and-off player, has two tournament victories this year.

Strongest competition for this group is expected to come from the seasoned players who have come close on several occasions but never have won the Masters.

But there are a lot of ambitious youngsters who aren't the least appalled by the domineering course or by the reputations of their elders.

Augusta National with its 6,965 yards of maximum length, its huge hard-to-handle greens and its par of 36-36—72 is a bit too big for the old timers and most of the amateurs. In fact, in 19 years the 72 hole par of 288 has been beaten only 83 times.

Mongrel Enters Track Dash, But Finishes Fourth

JACKSON, Miss., April 4 (AP)—A brown and white mongrel entered the 880-yard dash, uninvited, at a high school track meet here and finished a strong fourth in a field of five.

When the starter's gun cracked and the four half milers took off yesterday, the dog joined them at the first turn and made the entire race.

He was lagging pretty badly on the second lap but improved his position considerably by cutting off one end of the track and picking up the pack on the opposite side.

Why only TCP gets the full power from High Octane Gasoline

You might expect that all you need to get the full power out of a high compression engine is high octane gasoline. Actually you need more than just high octane—you need a gasoline with a special kind of additive.

That's because the way most of us drive most of the time—short trips here and there—creates a power-wasting problem that neither engine design nor highest octane gasoline can solve by themselves.

This problem is the increased build-up of certain deposits within the combustion chambers . . . the principal cause of power waste.

What happens is this:

As your engine warms up, these deposits warm up, too—glow red hot. And these glowing particles act like hot coals—ignite the gasoline-mixture ahead of time . . . before the pistons reach proper firing position. This is called pre-firing and means that power works against you instead of for you.

In addition, these same deposits have another power-wasting effect: They foul spark plugs, causing your engine to miss.

Engineers will tell you there's nothing more wasteful of power and gasoline than pre-firing and spark plug "miss."

But there is an answer—there's one high octane gasoline that gives you all the advantages of high octane without the power-crippling effects of these deposits—Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP*.

TCP, the Shell-developed additive, fireproofs the deposits so that they no longer cause prefiring. No longer can they glow red hot and ignite the gasoline mixture. And TCP stops spark plug "miss," too. Your spark plugs do the job they are supposed to do.

Start getting the full power built into your engine. Get Shell Premium with TCP. It's the most powerful gasoline your car can use!

*Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for.

Only Shell Premium Gasoline has both TCP and High Octane!

Eagles Play In Frostburg, Keyser Today

Doug Pomfrey Hurls 2-Hitter At Cats To Defeat Bob Sirk

KEYSER, W. Va., April 4 — Freshman righthander Doug Pomfrey allowed Potomac State's tossers only two hits—both doubles—as he hurled the Ashland College nine to a 3-1 triumph over the Catamounts here today.

The victory opened a five-game invasion of this area for the Ohio aggregation which will play a double bill tomorrow — meeting Frostburg State Teachers College nine at Beall High School field at 9:30 a. m. and then returning here to Keyser to battle Potomac State again at 2 p. m. the same day.

Make Up Frostburg Game

Ashland was scheduled to open with a twin bill against Frostburg on Tuesday but the games were rained out. The visiting tossers, coached by George Donges who is in his 20th season at the helm of the Eagles, will make up one of the games with the Thursday morning fray at Frostburg.

The Eagles will make their tour of the area extend over Friday and Saturday when they travel to Shepherdstown, W. Va., to battle Shepherd College tossers in a pair of tilts.

Ashland opened the scoring here today with an unearned tally in the fourth off righthander Bob Sirk of Potomac State.

Gerry Devault opened the frame with a single, stole second and moved to third on an infield out. He scored as second baseman James Petite bobbled Pomfrey's bounder.

Two Out At Plate

The victors added the deciding tallies in the eighth which was highlighted by leftfielder Bill Sirk of Potomac State throwing out two Eagles runners at the plate.

With one out Davault was safe on a miscue, Jim Duskey singled and Pomfrey singled, but Devault, attempting to score from second was thrown out at the plate, Bill Sirk to Catcher Bob Connally. Alvin Brady then singled to load the sacks and Bob Sirk lost control to walk Larry Root, forcing home the first run of the inning.

Gene Miller's single scored Pomfrey but Brady, also attempting to score from second, was tossed out at home on a perfect peg from Bill Sirk to Connally.

Potomac State, which was held to a single hit yesterday by Mount Union, garnered only two off Pomfrey today, doubles by Herndon Wilkins and Connally.

Connally's blow was responsible for the Catamount's run in the ninth, which spoiled Pomfrey's shutout bid.

Pomfrey, in addition to tossing a two-hitter and fanning 11, garnered two of Ashland's six hits off Bob Sirk. Sirk also struck out 11. The lineups:

Detroit Edges Red Sox, 2-1

LAKELAND, Fla., April 4 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers closed out their Florida exhibition scheduled today by shading the Boston Red Sox 2-1 in a pitchers' battle worthy of midseason.

Bob Miller and Dick Marlowe bested Mel Parnell and Frank Baumann with the help of an unearned run that provided the margin of victory.

Miller gave up two hits in three innings, Marlowe five in six with the only telling blow a bases-empty homer by centerfielder Jackie Keough in the third off Marlowe.

Harman, Lytle, Walter, Malone Teams Victors

Four Games Carded Tonight In Tourney

Lytle's Sign Shop and Harman's Store tossers captured victories in the final two Senior Unlimited Division contests last night in the Central YMCA-Jaycees annual Gold Medal basketball tournament on the "Y" court.

Lytle's racked up the second highest total of points in the third way of the tournament last night by swamping the Mixtures, 88-45. Tuesday the Devon Club banged home 90 points in a victory over Fort Ashby.

Managed by Randall Davis, Lytle's tossers was paced by Henry Pettigrew and Junie Perry who tallied 24 and 21 points respectively in the 38-goal attack by the victors.

After a close first quarter in which Lytle's led, 15-12, it was no contest with quarter scores being 40-26, 69-33 in the second and third stanzas. High man for the Mixtures was Cline with 19 points.

Harman's Win Overtime Tilt

Harman's defeated Lathrum's Market in an overtime contest, 52-48, outscoring the losers, 5-1, in the three-minute extra period.

The two Senior Unlimited teams battled nip and tuck all the way with Harman's holding a 15-14 edge at the quarter and the two teams tied 20-all at intermission. Harman's again led, 35-33, at the close of the third quarter before Lathrum's knotted the count at 47-all at the closing whistle.

The win for Lytle's and Harman's placed them with APC Metal, Devon Club and Cumberland Electric Seniors as first round Senior Division victors.

Last night's quartet of games narrowed the field of play in the tournament to 23 survivors. There were 35 teams at the opening of hostitities Monday.

Texaco Five Wins

In the 135-pound class game, first on the four games scheduled last night, Walter's Texaco five edged the Rustlers, 60-58, after trailing much of the game and rallying in the final period.

Manager Robert Lennox's aggregation led 12-9 at the quarter but trailed the Rustlers, 28-20 at halftime and 48-42 at the close of the third stanza.

Bill Salesky topped the victors with 24 points on 11 goals and a pair of fouls. High man for the Rustlers, managed by Russ Robertson, was Bill Hook with 13 tallies.

Wilson Gets 25 Points

In the second game of the evening in the Junior Unlimited Class Malone's Lee Tires edged past Lindsay's Soft Water Service, 50-47.

Jim Thomas with 14 points and Minnicks with 10 carried the attack for Malone's while high man for Lindsay's was George Wilson with 25 points. The Lindsay team, composed of Keyser High School players, trailed throughout most of the game.

Taft Inaugurated Custom Of Throwing First Ball

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, APRIL 4—(INS)—Once during the reign of President Taft, the late Clark Griffith, then a smart young man, conceived the bright idea of having the chief executive toss out the first ball to open the season in Washington.

Griffith trotted down to the White House, presented a gold pass to the always genial president, and the president agreed to do his stuff at the opener.

The custom has been followed by each succeeding president, and President Eisenhower will be on hand to throw out the ball this season.

Over the years this custom added many thousands of much needed dollars to the club treasury. Washington, as a wit once remarked was then as it was last year, "First in war, first in peace and last in the American League."

Wilson Kept Score

President Woodwrow Wilson, who ranks second only to Thomas Jefferson in his erudition, was a surprisingly keen fan. He kept score in the approved professional style but far more neatly than we've ever seen a sports writer keep it.

Presidents Hoover and Roosevelt enjoyed the games, and even the dour Coolidge, who was never an athlete, liked the excitement and the uproarious welcome always given chief executives at the openers.

And for many years they had the pleasure of watching Walter Johnson, greatest of all pitchers, fire bullets past the hitters.

The first record we have of any former president attending an opener was in 1883 when former president general U. S. Grant dropped in to see the Giants start the season in the original Polo Grounds.

Played Polo There

This ball park was located at what is now the northeast end of Central Park, about two miles from the present home of the Giants. The old Polo Grounds was where the first polo was played in this country, hence the name.

The most glamorous opening of all was in 1923 when the Yankees dedicated their present stadium by trimming the Red Sox, 4-1. Bob Shawkey, now coach at Dartmouth pitched for the Yanks and Babe Ruth's homer won the game.

Dixie Classic Opens At Durham, Four Teams Post Wins

DURHAM, N. C., April 4 (AP)—Colgate, Michigan, Wake Forest and North Carolina State today won opening round games in the second annual Dixie Baseball Classic.

The Red Raiders polished off Duke 16-12 here as part of a four-game opening card played on as many fields. Michigan whipped North Carolina 4-2 at Chapel Hill, Wake Forest drubbed Loyola of New Orleans 11-5 at Wake Forest, and North Carolina State edged Amherst 6-5 at Raleigh.

Indians Turn Back New York, 2 To 0

AUSTIN, Tex., April 4 (AP)—Veteran righthanders Bob Lemon and Bob Feller combined to pitch a five-hit shutout as the Cleveland Indians turned back the New York Giants 2-0 before an overflow crowd of 7,000 today.

The Indians made only three hits, all ground rule doubles, but one of them, by Al Rosen, turned into a run in the second inning. Another, by Al Smith in the third, positioned the other run.

Gene Woodling, who had walked, went to third on Smith's hit and scored when shortstop Al Dark bobbled Rosen's grounder for an error with two out.

Lemon, pitching the first six innings for the Tribe, allowed four of the Giant hits. A double off the wall by catcher Ray Katt in the eighth was the only safety yielded by Feller.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 4 (AP)—Illinois scored a run in the bottom of the tenth inning today to defeat West Virginia 7-6 and gain the finals of the Florida State University Invitational Baseball Tournament.

The tie-breaking win came when the Illini's Bill Bolk singled Don Lukaszewski home from second base. Bolk was the hitting star for Illinois, getting three safeties.

Earlier today, Notre Dame blasted Brown University 18-8 in a consolation game.

Phillips Oilers Win Over All-Stars, 79-75

KANSAS CITY, April 4 (AP)—The Phillips 66ers got off to a fast start on center Chuck Darling's shooting and stayed in front all the way to dump the College All-Stars 79-75 in the windup round of the U. S. Olympic basketball playoffs tonight.

The eventual teams championship of the three night round robin playoffs still depended on the outcome of the last game involving the Seattle Buchans, National AAU champions, and the Armed Forces All Stars.

Phillips, a long-time AAU basketball power, needed a 5-point winning margin to clinch the championship on the Olympic formula under which the U.S. finals are being played.

Career Boy Is Upset

Loses At Jamaica To Will Of Allah

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP)—Sonny Whitney's Career Boy, highly regarded in Kentucky Derby speculation, made his 1956 racing debut today at Jamaica and finished a shocking second to Will of Allah in the six-furlong Olympia Purse.

Will of Allah, owned by Isidor Bieber, had finished ninth to Terrang in the Santa Anita Derby March 3 and wasn't even nominated for the big Kentucky classic at Louisville May 5.

However, Career Boy carried top weight of 126 pounds against only 114 for the other six 3-year olds in the three quarters of a mile sprint on a fast track in 1:12 flat. Career Boy, ridden by Eric Guerin, was the odds-on 11-20 favorite of the crowd of 19,492.

The dark brown son of Phalanx burst through a hole in a traffic jam near the head of the stretch about three-sixteenths of a mile from the finish. He moved up to a half a length behind Will of Allah but then apparently ran out of gas and was beaten a length and a half at the wire.

Hogan To Skip U.S. Open Play

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 4 (AP)—Ben Hogan said today he'll pass up the U.S. Open Golf Tournament this year. Hogan, Bobby Jones and Willie Anderson are the only four-time winners of the event.

Hogan will be at Rochester, N.Y., the week of the tournament but only for business reasons, he said as he practiced for the Masters Tournament starting tomorrow.

The only other 72-hole event on his calendar is the Colonial Invitation at Fort Worth, which he has won 5 times in 10 years.

West Virginia Gigging Season Is Extended

The gigging season for non-game fish has been extended in Hardy and Hampshire counties in West Virginia until April 15, Conservation Officer Bart Townsend announced yesterday. Grant County, however, is closed for the gigging season.

Townsend said the season will close after April 15 until November 1.

Six-Run Rally In Ninth Saves Game For Navy

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 4 (AP)—Navy scored six runs in a frantic ninth inning rally today, defeating Syracuse 8-7.

The last inning surge wiped out a standout performance by Syracuse catcher Sam Booker, who collected two triples and a single, dorve in three runs and scored twice himself.

The Tar rally came on five hits—as many as they got in the first eight innings—two Syracuse errors and a hit batsman.

Third baseman Ed Stewart and pinch hitter Jim Marshall both hit doubles in the big inning for Navy, Marshall's scoring the tying and winning runs.

MOBILE, Ala., April 4 (AP)—Milwaukee scored twice in the 10th inning, with Johnny Logan walloping a tie-breaking solo home run, to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers 7-5 today in their homeward exhibition tour.

The Dodgers had scored two runs without benefit of a hit in the ninth to tie it against Milwaukee's Bob Buhl.

Milwaukee's winning markers came off rookie righthander Don Elston, fourth Brooklyn pitcher.

The Dodgers took the early lead as Duke Snider homered in the first and Randy Jackson doubled to open a two-run second. Milwaukee got to starter Ken Lehman to take the lead with a four-run fourth, triggered by Hank Aaron's three-run homer.

Hamner, Greengrass Singles Win, 4-3

CLEARWATER, Fla., April 4 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies scored three runs in the eighth inning, two on Granny Hamner's single and another on a single by Jim Greengrass to win a come-from-behind 4-3 exhibition victory over the New York Yankees here today.

Wally Westlake, pinch-hitting for winning pitcher Chick Pieretti, singled to open the eighth. Richie Ashburn walked and Bobby Morgan sacrificed. Then Hamner tied the score with a single off losing pitcher Bob Grim.

After Del Ennis fanned, Stan Lopata singled Hamner to second from where he scored on a single by Greengrass.

Earlier, the Yankees belabored the Phillies' star right hander, Robin Roberts for three runs in the fourth. Billy Martin walked, Yogi Berra singled and Elston Howard drove out a sacrifice fly for one run. Lou Skizas, a rookie from Denver, smashed a home run to account for the other two Yankee runs.

Whitey Ford pitched the first seven innings for the Yankees, holding the Phillies to one run and four hits.

Policewoman Duties Outlined

Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn, who has always advocated the necessity of a full-time policewoman on the Cumberland Police Force, yesterday announced the requirements for the position.

Several weeks ago Chief Flynn submitted a letter to the Civil Service Commission, requesting the establishment of a policewoman's position on the City Police Department.

The commission in answering the chief requested that he set up the requirements and duties of such a position, and submit these regulations to the commission.

Chief Flynn said that the woman would handle specialized law enforcement and crime prevention work involving offenses by or against women and juveniles.

The chief said the woman would perform police duties with the primary objective of preventing and controlling exploitation of women and children for commercial or immoral purposes, and the prevention of delinquency among juvenile girls.

In order to qualify for the position a woman must be a high school graduate, be in excellent health, have the ability to deal effectively with juveniles, women and the public in general; be able to speak effectively before public groups; prepare reports and maintain records, and be able to operate a typewriter.

Other special requirements will be that the woman must not be less than 25 years of age, and not over 35 years of age; be at least five-feet six inches tall, and not over five-feet nine inches tall, and be in general good physical condition.

Chief Flynn also pointed out that applicants must be free from a police record, possess a driver's license, be willing to work at nights and on weekends when required and be willing to wear a police uniform.

The duties of the policewoman will be to enforce laws and ordinances with particular reference to criminal behavior or delinquency relative to women and children, and cooperate in evolving corrective measures to be taken.

Chief Flynn said other duties will include the investigation of cases involving neglected, abused or delinquent children, interviewing neighbors and families and contacting schools and social agencies.

The chief also said that the policewoman will be required to patrol taverns, dance halls, bus terminals and similar places frequented by minors, assist other officers in investigating prostitution and other commercialized vice involving girls or women.

The woman must also detain women and juveniles suspected of committing crimes or misdemeanors, question the suspects and conduct investigations. She will also be required to gather evidence of criminal activities and make arrest.

Chief Flynn also stated that the woman would need a knowledge of social problems, particularly those which involve delinquency of juveniles and women, and have a knowledge of the causes of juvenile delinquency and the methods of creating such problems.

The woman would also be required to have the ability to conduct a confidential investigation with good judgment and tact, and to obtain information by interrogation and investigation.

Local Resident Hurt In Mishap

A Cumberland driver was admitted Tuesday to Winchester (Va.) Memorial Hospital with injuries suffered in a Route 50 accident on Cooper Mountain about three miles west of Capon Bridge, W. Va.

Admitted to the hospital was William S. Pyles, 607 Maryland Avenue, whom attaches said suffered lacerations of the forehead and a knee injury. Also injured in the accident and admitted to the Winchester hospital were Col. Lucian Rochte Jr., of Falls Church, Va., and his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Rochte. Both suffered minor but painful injuries, attaches said. The three were reported in "satisfactory" condition.

West Virginia State Police said Pyles was traveling west on Route 50 when he swung over into the opposite lane of traffic after negotiating a curve and crashed headon into the Rochte vehicle, a 1956-model station wagon. Both cars were demolished, police said.

Three Rochte children who were passengers in the family car were not injured in the accident.

THIS IS THE YEAR OF GREAT DECISIONS

ON TUESDAY, NOV 6, every eligible voter in the United States will vote for President, vice president and representatives to the lower House of Congress. But the similarity by states ends there. As the map illustrates, 32 states will elect U. S. senators, 30 states (and Puerto Rico) will elect governors, and five states will have no general elections. All but six states — Alabama, Kentucky, Maryland, Mississippi, New Jersey and Virginia—will vote for state legislatures. And prohibition is not a dead issue. Dry forces in California are circulating a petition requesting a state-wide referendum on the question of establishing local option. Ballotings on the prohibition issue include eight in Texas, three in Georgia, three in Alabama, four in Florida and one in North Carolina.

Kefauver Urges Conference To Discuss Mideast

MIAMI, Fla., April 4 (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver tonight called for top leaders of Israel and the Arab states to sit down with the United States, France and Britain to discuss "the very dangerous situation" developing in the Middle East.

"Such a meeting, with all the parties speaking frankly, might bring the understanding and peace we seek," the Tennessee senator said. "If not, we would at least know then what the score is and be able to plan accordingly."

Kefauver wound up a whirlwind three-day swing through Florida in his bid for the state's 28 Democratic National Convention votes in the May 29 presidential preference primary against Adlai Stevenson with a speech at Miami Beach devoted to the Middle East crisis.

In his prepared text, he urged that the United States and other western nations make arms available to Israel to restore the balance in military power broken he said, when Communist Czechoslovakia began shipping arms to Egypt.

Adlai Stevenson Hopes To Fill Mediator Role

KINGSLAND, Ga., April 4 (AP) — Adlai Stevenson said today he hopes to fill the role of mediator in both domestic and foreign fields in an effort to unite extremists of the right and the left.

In a copyrighted interview with M. L. St. John, political editor of the Atlanta Constitution, Stevenson conceded this role is becoming increasingly difficult.

"But," he said, "It also becomes more and more important that the mediator's role be filled.

Finan Makes Statement On Kelly Decision

Thomas B. Finan, chairman of the Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee, yesterday disputed the statement attributed to William P. Kelly of Lonaconing regarding the endorsement by the committee of George P. Mahoney for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate.

The committee had endorsed Mahoney and Tuesday Kelly, a member of the committee, announced his support for Millard E. Tydings.

Finan's statement follows:

"I regret very much that I must dispute the statement attributed to my friend of many years, William P. Kelly of Lonaconing, regarding the endorsement by the State Central Committee of George P. Mahoney, which statement he gave when he publicly announced the switch of his support from Mr. Mahoney to Mr. Tydings.

"Mr. Kelly's statement to the effect that the State Central Committee of Allegany County endorsed Mr. Mahoney with the reservation that in the event that if any other prominent Democrat announced his candidacy, "the members of the committee had the privilege of switching over to that candidate," is completely erroneous. The endorsement given by the committee for Mr. Mahoney had only the reservation that in the event any other candidate from Western Maryland announced, the committee's endorsement would not be binding upon them. This was done to enable the committee to support William C. Walsh or former Governor Lane, should they have chosen to enter the race. I might add that Mr. Kelly seconded this motion. Now, maybe Mr. Kelly thinks that Hartford County, the home of Mr. Tydings, is in Western Maryland, but I would advise him to take another look at the geography of this State.

"I don't dispute for one minute Mr. Kelly's right to change his mind, this is a free world composed of free men, but he should face the issue and state that he wants to repudiate his former commitment and not try to distort the committee's endorsement. Mr. Kelly was appointed to fill the unexpired term left vacant by the death of John M. Cain of Frostburg, and he was appointed to fill this vacancy by the other five members of the State Central Committee whose endorsement he now publicly repudiates.

"I wish to compliment both senatorial candidates, Mr. Mahoney and Mr. Tydings, for the high caliber campaign that they have individually conducted to date in this primary, and I trust that they will continue on a high level, because as chairman of the State Central Committee in this county, I wish to see solidarity and unity of the party behind whoever is the victorious candidate in the primary."

Mahoney, yesterday announced the appointment of Mayor Joseph Hinebaugh of Oakland as manager of his campaign in Garrett County.

Mahoney made the appointment as he headed for Frederick and last night's Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner. He also named Mrs. Maria R. Guard of Friendsville as treasurer of the Garrett campaign.

Meanwhile in St. Marys County, Del. J. Frank Raley (D-St.Marys) was appointed campaign treasurer in that county by Henry J. Fowler, Mahoney's local chairman. Raley, 29, is in the insurance business in Lexington Park.

THIS IS THE YEAR OF GREAT DECISIONS

ON TUESDAY, NOV 6, every eligible voter in the United States will vote for President, vice president and representatives to the lower House of Congress. But the similarity by states ends there. As the map illustrates, 32 states will elect U. S. senators, 30 states (and Puerto Rico) will elect governors, and five states will have no general elections. All but six states — Alabama, Kentucky, Maryland, Mississippi, New Jersey and Virginia—will vote for state legislatures. And prohibition is not a dead issue. Dry forces in California are circulating a petition requesting a state-wide referendum on the question of establishing local option. Ballotings on the prohibition issue include eight in Texas, three in Georgia, three in Alabama, four in Florida and one in North Carolina.

Kefauver Urges Conference To Discuss Mideast

MIAMI, Fla., April 4 (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver tonight called for top leaders of Israel and the Arab states to sit down with the United States, France and Britain to discuss "the very dangerous situation" developing in the Middle East.

"Such a meeting, with all the parties speaking frankly, might bring the understanding and peace we seek," the Tennessee senator said. "If not, we would at least know then what the score is and be able to plan accordingly."

Kefauver wound up a whirlwind three-day swing through Florida in his bid for the state's 28 Democratic National Convention votes in the May 29 presidential preference primary against Adlai Stevenson with a speech at Miami Beach devoted to the Middle East crisis.

In his prepared text, he urged that the United States and other western nations make arms available to Israel to restore the balance in military power broken he said, when Communist Czechoslovakia began shipping arms to Egypt.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 4 (INS) — The male hope of MGM these days is Leslie Nielson. He plays the husband in "Opposite Sex," and he was in "Forbidden Planet," so he's yet to be discovered by the public.

Leslie came directly from TV to MGM and it looks like he'll stay there. Dory Schary bought "The Mystery of Misty Creek," a current magazine story, for Nielson, who will have the starring role.

Next week, MGM will have more pictures going than any other studio in town. "The Opposite Sex," "Somebody Up There Likes Me," "Somewhere I'll Find You," "Tea and Sympathy" and "Raintree County" will be in work at one time. Sounds like the good old days. This list does not include the pictures being made in Europe, "Teahouse of the August Moon" in the Orient, and others.

Seems fitting to me that Universal-International should buy "The Man of 1000 Faces," the story of Lon Chaney which James Cagney and Ralph Wheelwright own. This studio is where Lon made "Hunchback of Notre Dame," "Phantom of the Opera" and all of his big successes of a generation ago. In fact, one of the landmarks at U-I is the replica of Notre Dame which still stands.

Naturally, Jimmy Cagney would not let anyone else star in this story, so when he comes back from his summer in the east he will check in at U-I. And isn't this his first time at that studio?"

For some reason, probably because it is highly censorable, Audrey Hepburn turned down "Bonjour Tristesse," but I hear from Paris that Otto Preminger has signed Brigitte Barrot, called "France's Pocket Venus." Brigitte, I'd like to recall to you, played Helen's maid in "Helen of Troy."

She is now 22, became a star at 16, married her producer, Vladim Plemmianikov, at the age of 18 and is still married to him.

Preminger is in Paris where he made tests of the very comely Brigitte, and the film will be made there.

I finally caught up with Susan Hayward after she came in from a shopping tour for her trip to the Cannes Film Festival on April 22. She told me that Charles Le Maire had made her the most beautiful clothes and she expects to have the time of her life in Europe.

She will visit Rome and Florence before she returns, but Susie won't leave her two boys for very long. She can't take them with her now until her legal tangle with Jess Barker is straightened, but Susie tells me as soon as everything is settled she is going to take the boys with her to Europe.

For two people who are separated Joanne Gilbert and Danny Arnold are doing a good imitation of a couple about to reconcile.

Joanne slipped into Danny's house in the wee sma' hours of Easter morning, and after hiding eggs all over the house deposited an expensive foreign make typewriter in the living room as an Easter gift.

A little later, Joanne came back and watched Danny do a one man hunt for the eggs. The young couple has decided that when Joanne completes "The Great Man" at U-I they'll go away together and talk out their problems.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Deborah Kerr came back from Palm Springs with a bad case of virus and was unable to report to the studio for "Tea and Sympathy."

An ecstatically happy girl is Virginia Leith, who has been told by her studio that she will go to Cannes for the film festival.

Love Nat "King" Cole's description of his role in "Istanbul." He says, "I am supposed to hold a high note while Errol Flynn holds the girl."

Jimmy and Gloria Stewart are in Florida for a week of deep sea fishing.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Wear your glasses with great poise and give up all gestures that suggest you are apologetic or self-conscious about them.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Make Glasses An Ally Of Your Beauty

Some girls have beautiful eyes, but they hide them behind unflattering frames. And there is the foolish woman who refuses to wear glasses in public. She is the one who will go squinting her way to old age. Peering at things makes one look older. Sometimes it can even be dangerous—for instance, in traffic.

What you really lose by wearing glasses is the awkwardness of peering without recognition at friends who greet you and wrinkles caused by squinting at fine print. Glasses have become an important accessory and flattering adornment for your face. (My free leaflet, "Glasses That Adorn" will be sent to you upon receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to me at this newspaper.) Women select them as they do other fashionable accessories . . . according to costume, coloring, and face type. Each season glasses have become more attractive as designers turn out basic styles, colorful frames, complexion flattering ones, whimsical frames, and even very elegant styles. If you can afford it, have at least two pairs of glasses in your wardrobe.

Glasses can give an upward lift to your face and actually make one look younger. They camouflage problem features and can somewhat hide wrinkles around the eyes. The right frame can even create the illusion of a more attractive nose. A snub nose can acquire "length" with a high, narrow bridge with keyhole construction frame. While a nose that is big or long will look shorter with the saddle tpye glass frame with the wide bridge as low as possible.

Wear glasses if you need them . . . hold your head proudly and move with assurance. You will feel less nerveous strain and have more charm.

Tomorrow—Sittin' Pretty.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, April 4 (INS) — People... places... things...

If there are two funnier guys in the world than Bob and Ray, they don't come in on my radio.

These two men of many voices possess a sense of the ludricous that never needs a custard pie to bring home its point. Their contempt for the foibles, fables and fat-heads of their calling is so keenly hilarious that they have accumulated the first compact cult that has been generated by radio in years. Jackie Gleason, a member of their fan club, swears they maintain a higher laugh quotient than anybody else in the history of their medium. Mr. Gleason packs impressive credentials himself.

They make their characters live so vividly in the minds of their listeners. Wally Ballou, Steve Bosco, Mary McGoon, Arthur Sturdley and all the others, including Mary Backstage, noble wife, are almost too good to be true—but always are. Their soap operas, interviews, man-on-the-street commentaries, sports accounts and special events transport this listener into helpless laughter.

It is not easily transferred to paper, this organized madness they dispense. Their make-believe about a regimented tour of Radio City engaged in by 11,000 severely trained tourists who are first reviewed by Morgan Beatty could not have been funnier, especially after the Radio City management machine-guns a number of the tourists who haplessly crashed through the ice of the skating rink.

Then there was Wally Ballou and somebody else, sent out to cover the St. Patrick's Day parade in New York. They keep calling Radio Central describing how strangely quiet things are along Sixth Avenue. The parade, of course, was on Fifth. And the interview with the strange rich doctor and manufacturer. It dealt with his wealth and strange mixture of professions. And with his strange trousers. There were no cuffs, it was noted, and the pants legs continued right down and under the man's shoes.

Bob Elliott and Ray Goulding met in 1946 while serving as staff announcers on a small Boston station. Goulding did straight news; Ray had doubled as a disk jockey. Goulding took to dropping in on Elliott's show at night. One night there was an open mike . . . and a wonderful nonsense knew a new birth.

Fresh from a stimulating talk with several little green men from Venus, and a seance with Birdie Murphy, a Pittsburgh reader booms:

"I have spent 20 years actively engaged in physical research, and data collected has absolutely assured me of the reality of reincarnation. Condemn nothing you are not qualified, by experience, to condemn.

"Once, I recall, you sounded off against flying saucers and displayed your gross ignorance by so doing. Keyhoe and Ruppelt in recent books make it quite clear that there are flying saucers."

"When Columbus sailed for Cathay he thought he was destined for China and Japan) the king of Spain gave him a letter to the khan of the ruling family in China, sending his greetings. This was in 1492. As it happened, the ruling family of China had been changed in 1368 by overthrow, so that the latest information the king of Spain had was 124 years out of date."

There's a moral there somewhere and I mean to ferret it out if it takes all spring. It may be a rap at bus travel.

Market Posts New Record On Late Burst Of Strength

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP) — The stock market advanced today in a late burst of strength centered in the oils and supported by the rails.

Some gains were quite extensive, but usually they didn't go beyond 3 points. Losses were numerous but larger than 1 to 2 points only occasionally.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 80 cents at $191.20, the second new record high mark touched this week. The industrial component of the average was up $1.40 at a new high of $274.30, rails were up 60 cents, and utilities were up 10 cents.

Not all stocks got a lift out of the final drive ahead. There actually were more losers than gainers in the list with 457 up and 497 down out of the 1,199 individual issues traded.

Fruehauf Trailer was the day's most active issue up 2 at 35⅛ as the company declared its regular quarterly dividend of 35 cents and announced it would continue paying a quarterly stock dividend of 2 per cent.

It was followed by Pennsylvania Railroad up ⅜ at 27⅜, Texas Gulf Producing up 5⅞ at 51, General Motors up ¼ at 45⅝, and Chicago Corp. up ⅞ at 27.

General Foods added 1½ at 95 on a proposed two-for-one split. Fairchild Engine was up ¾ at 14⅛ on a dividend declaration of 25 cents as against 55 cents plus 5 per cent stock for all of last year.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass, up 4⅝ yesterday, dropped 2¾ today a t93 as the company president at the annual meeting said 1956 profits were not expected to be as sharply higher as last year.

LAST DAY "TRIBUTE TO A BAD MAN" with JAMES CAGNEY

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 4 (INS) — The male hope of MGM these days is Leslie Nielson. He plays the husband in "Opposite Sex," and he was in "Forbidden Planet," so he's yet to be discovered by the public.

Leslie came directly from TV to MGM and it looks like he'll stay there. Dory Schary bought "The Mystery of Misty Creek," a current magazine story, for Nielson, who will have the starring role.

Next week, MGM will have more pictures going than any other studio in town. "The Opposite Sex," "Somebody Up There Likes Me," "Somewhere I'll Find You," "Tea and Sympathy" and "Raintree County" will be in work at one time. Sounds like the good old days. This list does not include the pictures being made in Europe, "Teahouse of the August Moon" in the Orient, and others.

Seems fitting to me that Universal-International should buy "The Man of 1000 Faces," the story of Lon Chaney which James Cagney and Ralph Wheelwright own. This studio is where Lon made "Hunchback of Notre Dame," "Phantom of the Opera" and all of his big successes of a generation ago. In fact, one of the landmarks at U-I is the replica of Notre Dame which still stands.

Naturally, Jimmy Cagney would not let anyone else star in this story, so when he comes back from his summer in the east he will check in at U-I. And isn't this his first time at that studio?"

For some reason, probably because it is highly censorable, Audrey Hepburn turned down "Bonjour Tristesse," but I hear from Paris that Otto Preminger has signed Brigitte Barrot, called "France's Pocket Venus." Brigitte, I'd like to recall to you, played Helen's maid in "Helen of Troy."

She is now 22, became a star at 16, married her producer, Vladim Plemmianikov, at the age of 18 and is still married to him.

Preminger is in Paris where he made tests of the very comely Brigitte, and the film will be made there.

I finally caught up with Susan Hayward after she came in from a shopping tour for her trip to the Cannes Film Festival on April 22. She told me that Charles Le Maire had made her the most beautiful clothes and she expects to have the time of her life in Europe.

She will visit Rome and Florence before she returns, but Susie won't leave her two boys for very long. She can't take them with her now until her legal tangle with Jess Barker is straightened, but Susie tells me as soon as everything is settled she is going to take the boys with her to Europe.

For two people who are separated Joanne Gilbert and Danny Arnold are doing a good imitation of a couple about to reconcile.

Joanne slipped into Danny's house in the wee sma' hours of Easter morning, and after hiding eggs all over the house deposited an expensive foreign make typewriter in the living room as an Easter gift.

A little later, Joanne came back and watched Danny do a one man hunt for the eggs. The young couple has decided that when Joanne completes "The Great Man" at U-I they'll go away together and talk out their problems.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Deborah Kerr came back from Palm Springs with a bad case of virus and was unable to report to the studio for "Tea and Sympathy."

An ecstatically happy girl is Virginia Leith, who has been told by her studio that she will go to Cannes for the film festival.

Love Nat "King" Cole's description of his role in "Istanbul." He says, "I am supposed to hold a high note while Errol Flynn holds the girl."

Jimmy and Gloria Stewart are in Florida for a week of deep sea fishing.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Wear your glasses with great poise and give up all gestures that suggest you are apologetic or self-conscious about them.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Make Glasses An Ally Of Your Beauty

Some girls have beautiful eyes, but they hide them behind unflattering frames. And there is the foolish woman who refuses to wear glasses in public. She is the one who will go squinting her way to old age. Peering at things makes one look older. Sometimes it can even be dangerous—for instance, in traffic.

What you really lose by wearing glasses is the awkwardness of peering without recognition at friends who greet you and wrinkles caused by squinting at fine print. Glasses have become an important accessory and flattering adornment for your face. (My free leaflet, "Glasses That Adorn" will be sent to you upon receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to me at this newspaper.) Women select them as they do other fashionable accessories . . . according to costume, coloring, and face type. Each season glasses have become more attractive as designers turn out basic styles, colorful frames, complexion flattering ones, whimsical frames, and even very elegant styles. If you can afford it, have at least two pairs of glasses in your wardrobe.

Glasses can give an upward lift to your face and actually make one look younger. They camouflage problem features and can somewhat hide wrinkles around the eyes. The right frame can even create the illusion of a more attractive nose. A snub nose can acquire "length" with a high, narrow bridge with keyhole construction frame. While a nose that is big or long will look shorter with the saddle tpye glass frame with the wide bridge as low as possible.

Wear glasses if you need them . . . hold your head proudly and move with assurance. You will feel less nerveous strain and have more charm.

Tomorrow—Sittin' Pretty.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, April 4 (INS) — People... places... things...

If there are two funnier guys in the world than Bob and Ray, they don't come in on my radio.

These two men of many voices possess a sense of the ludricous that never needs a custard pie to bring home its point. Their contempt for the foibles, fables and fat-heads of their calling is so keenly hilarious that they have accumulated the first compact cult that has been generated by radio in years. Jackie Gleason, a member of their fan club, swears they maintain a higher laugh quotient than anybody else in the history of their medium. Mr. Gleason packs impressive credentials himself.

They make their characters live so vividly in the minds of their listeners. Wally Ballou, Steve Bosco, Mary McGoon, Arthur Sturdley and all the others, including Mary Backstage, noble wife, are almost too good to be true—but always are. Their soap operas, interviews, man-on-the-street commentaries, sports accounts and special events transport this listener into helpless laughter.

It is not easily transferred to paper, this organized madness they dispense. Their make - believe about a regimented tour of Radio City engaged in by 11,000 severely trained tourists who are first reviewed by Morgan Beatty could not have been funnier, especially after the Radio City management machine-guns a number of the tourists who haplessly crashed through the ice of the skating rink.

Then there was Wally Ballou and somebody else, sent out to cover the St. Patrick's Day parade in New York. They keep calling Radio Central describing how strangely quiet things are along Sixth Avenue. The parade, of course, was on Fifth. And the interview with the strange rich doctor and manufacturer. It dealt with his wealth and strange mixture of professions. And with his strange trousers. There were no cuffs, it was noted, and the pants legs continued right down and under the man's shoes.

Bob Elliott and Ray Goulding met in 1946 while serving as staff announcers on a small Boston station. Goulding did straight news; Ray had doubled as a disk jockey. Goulding took to dropping in on Elliott's show at night. One night there was an open mike . . . and a wonderful nonsense knew a new birth.

Fresh from a stimulating talk with several little green men from Venus, and a seance with Birdie Murphy, a Pittsburgh reader booms:

"I have spent 20 years actively engaged in physical research, and data collected has absolutely assured me of the reality of reincarnation. Condemn nothing you are not qualified, by experience, to condemn.

"Once, I recall, you sounded off against flying saucers and displayed your gross ignorance by so doing. Keyhoe and Ruppelt in recent books make it quite clear that there are flying saucers."

C. R. Smith, president of American Airlines, sent his friend Rex Smith a memo the other day. It read:

"When Columbus sailed for Cathay he thought he was destined for China and Japan) the king of Spain gave him a letter to the khan of the ruling family in China, sending his greetings. This was in 1492. As it happened, the ruling family of China had been changed in 1368 by overthrow, so that the latest information the king of Spain had was 124 years out of date."

There's a moral there somewhere and I mean to ferret it out if it takes all spring. It may be a rap at bus travel.

Market Posts New Record On Late Burst Of Strength

NEW YORK, April 4 (AP) — The stock market advanced today in a late burst of strength centered in the oils and supported by the rails.

Some gains were quite extensive, but usually they didn't go beyond 3 points. Losses were numerous but larger than 1 to 2 points only occasionally.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 80 cents at $191.20, the second new record high mark touched this week. The industrial component of the average was up $1.40 at a new high of $274.30, rails were up 60 cents, and utilities were up 10 cents.

Not all stocks got a lift out of the final drive ahead. There actually were more losers than gainers in the list with 457 up and 497 down out of the 1,199 individual issues traded.

Fruehauf Trailer was the day's most active issue up 2 at 35⅛ as the company declared its regular quarterly dividend of 35 cents and announced it would continue paying a quarterly stock dividend of 2 per cent.

It was followed by Pennsylvania Railroad up ⅜ at 27⅜, Texas Gulf Producing up 5⅞ at 51, General Motors up ¼ at 45⅝, and Chicago Corp. up ⅞ at 27.

General Foods added 1½ at 95 on a proposed two-for-one split. Fairchild Engine was up ¾ at 14⅛ on a dividend declaration of 25 cents as against 55 cents plus 5 per cent stock for all of last year.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass, up 4⅝ yesterday, dropped 2¾ today a t93 as the company president at the annual meeting said 1956 profits were not expected to be as sharply higher as last year.

Position Of Treasury

WASHINGTON, April 4 (AP)—The cash position of the treasury March 30:

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
3 NT	Pass	6 NT	Pass

Since South's holding counted up to 26 high-card points, his three-notrump opening was correct in all respects and North was also right in visualizing a slam. North might have played a little safer by raising to only five notrump, but it was not the slam contract itself that was open to criticism—it was only South's play of that contract.

West opened his top heart, and East's blank king fell on the trick. South made a rapid count and saw that 12 tricks would be readily available if the spade suit broke 3-3—so he apparently put all his eggs in that one basket. He took the first trick, cashed four diamonds and three clubs and then hopefully led out the ace, king and queen of spades. West, however, had held grimly to his spade stopper, and the contract was down one.

The moment dummy appeared declarer could count 11 top tricks. He was perfectly right, of course, in concluding that a 3-3 spade break would give him the slam, but there was one small precaution that he could have taken, with an eye to the spades not breaking. It was impossible for him to win all 13 tricks, so why not concede the first trick for the advantage of establishing a possible squeeze position?

Observe that conceding the first trick creates precisely that situation. East can make any shift he chooses. Declarer wins, cashes the heart ace, three clubs and four diamonds, discarding his own last heart on dummy's long diamond. West then cannot hold a heart against dummy's five-spot and at the same time guard the spade suit.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

SETTING UP A SQUEEZE

THE DEAL below is something of a curiosity in one respect: few run-of-the-mill players would make the contract, and no expert even faintly worthy of the name would lose it.

South dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ 6 5 4 ♥ 5 3 2 ♦ K J 6 2 ♣ K 10 5
♠ J 9 3 2 ♥ Q J 10 8 7 6 ♦ 4 3 ♣ 8	N W E S	♠ 10 8 ♥ K ♦ 10 8 7 5 ♣ 9 7 6 4 3 2
	♠ A K Q 7 ♥ A 9 4 ♦ A Q 9 ♣ A Q J

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
3 NT	Pass	6 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Since South's holding counted up to 26 high-card points, his three-notrump opening was correct in all respects and North was also right in visualizing a slam. North might have played a little safer by raising to only five notrump, but it was not the slam contract itself that was open to criticism—it was only South's play of that contract.

West opened his top heart, and East's blank king fell on the trick. South made a rapid count and saw that 12 tricks would be readily available if the spade suit broke 3-3—so he apparently put all his eggs in that one basket. He took the first trick, cashed four diamonds and three clubs and then hopefully led out the ace, king and queen of spades. West, however, had held grimly to his spade stopper, and the contract was down one.

The moment dummy appeared declarer could count 11 top tricks. He was perfectly right, of course, in concluding that a 3-3 spade break would give him the slam, but there was one small precaution that he could have taken, with an eye to the spades not breaking. It was impossible for him to win all 13 tricks, so why not concede the first trick for the advantage of establishing a possible squeeze position?

Observe that conceding the first trick creates precisely that situation. East can make any shift he chooses. Declarer wins, cashes the heart ace, three clubs and four diamonds, discarding his own last heart on dummy's long diamond. West then cannot hold a heart against dummy's five-spot and at the same time guard the spade suit.

Employes Are Hurt At Glass Plant

In Memoriam

In memory of Husband and Father, Howard P. Miller, who passed away two years ago — April 5, 1954.
Loving thoughts of one so Dear
Often bring a silent tear.
He lives with us in memory still
Not just today — but always will.
Beautiful memories, cherished forever.
Of those happy days we spent together.
Sadly missed by
Wife and Son.

In Memoriam

In memory of Husband and Father, Howard P. Miller, who passed away two years ago — April 5, 1954.
Loving thoughts of one so Dear
Often bring a silent tear.
He lives with us in memory still
Not just today — but always will.
Beautiful memories, cherished forever,
Of those happy days we spent together.
Sadly missed by
Wife and Son.

Fatal Accident Reportedly Due To Third Auto

West Virginia State Police have discovered that a third automobile was involved in the accident near Romney Monday afternoon which claimed the life of a 76-year-old woman.

Trooper J. L. Martin found out about the third vehicle when he interrogated the drivers of the other two cars, Harold N. Lewis, 52, of Romney, and John Mosorjak, Baltimore, Tuesday at Memorial Hospital.

The Mosorjak car was eastbound, Trooper Martin said, explaining that Mr. and Mrs. Mosorjak were returning to Baltimore after having spent the holiday weekend in Carroll, W. Va., where they had visited Mrs. Mosorjak's parents.

The Lewis vehicle was returning from Washington where Mr. and Mrs. Lewis had picked up his mother, Mrs. Cora A. Lewis of Augusta, who was killed in the mishap.

Trooper Martin said Mosorjak told him a car started to pull out from a roadside park near Shanks, hesitated momentarily and then continued on into the path of his vehicle. Mosorjak tried to stop his car, and this was verified by tire marks on the highway, Trooper Martin explained.

Mosorjak was unable to recall whether his car struck the third vehicle and then swerved into the path of the Lewis automobile, or whether he had swerved into the Lewis car in an effort to avoid striking the third car.

Further investigation disclosed that the man driving the third car drove to Shanks and asked for assistance at the post office there. Edgar W. Allen informed authorities the man did not explain that he was involved, and that he had left the scene unobserved during the excitement of helping the injured people.

Trooper Martin said the unknown driver was described as being approximately 60 years old, about five feet, seven inches tall and weighing around 170 pounds. The man wore glasses and was well-dressed, Allen said. His car was either a Ford or Mercury and carried new Virginia license plates. There was a woman passenger in the vehicle, Allen told police.

Memorial Hospital reported last night the wives of both Lewis and Mosorjak remained in "critical" condition. Mrs. Lewis was reported in extreme shock, and suffered from a multiple fracture of the thigh and fractures of both forearms. Mrs. Mosorjak sustained multiple chest injuries, two broken legs, a collapsed lung and possible fractured skull.

Mosorjak and Lewis, both of whom were extensively injured, were reported as "fair" yesterday by attaches.

Fatal Accident Reportedly Due To Third Auto

West Virginia State Police have discovered that a third automobile was involved in the accident near Romney Monday afternoon which claimed the life of a 76-year-old woman.

Trooper J. L. Martin found out about the third vehicle when he interrogated the drivers of the other two cars, Harold N. Lewis, 52, of Romney, and John Mosorjak, Baltimore, Tuesday at Memorial Hospital.

The Mosorjak car was eastbound, Trooper Martin said, explaining that Mr. and Mrs. Mosorjak were returning to Baltimore after having spent the holiday weekend in Carroll, W. Va., where they had visited Mrs. Mosorjak's parents.

The Lewis vehicle was returning from Washington where Mr. and Mrs. Lewis had picked up his mother, Mrs. Cora A. Lewis of Augusta, who was killed in the mishap.

Trooper Martin said Mosorjak told him a car started to pull out from a roadside park near Shanks, hesitated momentarily and then continued on into the path of his vehicle. Mosorjak tried to stop his car, and this was verified by tire marks on the highway, Trooper Martin explained.

Mosorjak was unable to recall whether his car struck the third vehicle and then swerved into the path of the Lewis automobile, or whether he had swerved into the Lewis car in an effort to avoid striking the third car.

Further investigation disclosed that the man driving the third car drove to Shanks and asked for assistance at the post office there. Edgar W. Allen informed authorities the man did not explain that he was involved, and that he had left the scene unobserved during the excitement of helping the injured people.

Trooper Martin said the unknown driver was described as being approximately 60 years old, about five feet, seven inches tall and weighing around 170 pounds. The man wore glasses and was well-dressed, Allen said. His car was either a Ford or Mercury and carried new Virginia license plates. There was a woman passenger in the vehicle, Allen told police.

Memorial Hospital reported last night the wives of both Lewis and Mosorjak remained in "critical" condition. Mrs. Lewis was reported in extreme shock, and suffered from a multiple fracture of the thigh and fractures of both forearms. Mrs. Mosorjak sustained multiple chest injuries, two broken legs, a collapsed lung and possible fractured skull.

Mosorjak and Lewis, both of whom were extensively injured, were reported as "fair" yesterday by attaches.

Driver Burned, Truck Ruined In Freak Fire

Fred Jenkins, 18, Slightly Injured

An 18-year-old Clarysville truck driver was burned when the truck he was operating caught fire while he was dumping a load of rubbish at the City Dump. The vehicle was destroyed.

Fred Jenkins, a senior at Beall High School, was treated at Memorial Hospital for first degree burns about the face, neck and the top of his shoulders.

The mishap occurred as Jenkins was in the process of dumping a load of rubbish picked up earlier in the day from a local industrial plant.

Albert W. Klavuhn of Lion Spring, some eight miles west of Cumberland on U. S. Route 40, owner of the truck, gave this account of the accident.

Another driver for Klavuhn, Carl F. Swindel, Meyersdale, Pa., and a helper went to the local plant yesterday morning and the load of rubbish was placed on the vehicle.

As the driver was traveling through Meyersdale toward the dump, motor trouble developed and he decided to park the truck.

Later in the day Klavuhn and Jenkins went to pick up the stranded truck with another vehicle and decided to unload the rubbish by pulling the truck to the dump.

Jenkins was in the cab of the truck, and had backed it to the edge of the dump. Klavuhn was near the truck and after Jenkins began raising the hoist to dump the load, part of it spilled down over the dump and in seconds burning debris caught the load and the entire truck was engulfed in flames.

Klavuhn told Jenkins to pull the truck away but the inside of the cab became so hot that the victim was forced to jump to safety.

He was taken to the hospital in a nearby auto.

More Than 600 Railroad 'Bugs' To Visit City

Between 600 and 1,000 model engineers and railroad enthusiasts from Baltimore and Washington will come to Cumberland Sunday, April 15, to visit the facilities of the two local railroads.

Anthony Saeli, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, said the two groups of railroad "bugs" will come here in special trains arriving about noon April 15.

The Baltimore group, known as Baltimore Society of Model Engineers Inc., will travel to Cumberland in a special Western Maryland Railway train. The Washington group will come here on a special Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train.

While here they will visit the roundhouses of both railroads and are especially interested in inspecting some of the old steam engines which no longer operate in those metropolitan centers.

One of the problems facing Saeli in attempting to make arrangements for feeding the visitors is that many of the downtown restaurants normally are closed on Sundays. It is hoped that arrangements can be made so that the visitors to Cumberalnd all can be fed, he said.

The trip director for the Baltimore group is Irvin V. Kopp.

Another group, which will visit Cumberland tonight, is the 40-member Shelton College choir from Erskine Lake, N. J. The choir has been touring Virginia and North Carolina. The singers will stay here overnight en route to a Friday engagement in Pittsburgh.

The choir will present a program over a local radio station while here. The arrival is scheduled for between 4 and 5 p. m. today. Saeli has made the necessary arrangements for feeding and housing the young singers.

Seven Directors Elected By Cumberland Jaycees

Seven directors were elected by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce last night for new two-year terms at the group's monthly meeting at the Cumberland Country Club.

Elected were George L. Carney Jr., Dr. William S. Firey, J. Brooke Fradiska, Conrad Hohing Jr., Raymond H. Lapp Jr., Oscar H. Lashley Jr. and Kenneth J. Williams. All except Fradiska were re-elected.

C. Walter Haschert was chairman of the nominating committee.

Carney, who is general chairman of the third annual Cumberland Home Show to be held April 25 through April 28, reported that a number of previous exhibitors plan to take space again this year. The show will be conducted in buildings adjacent to the A&P market on Wineow Street from 6:30 to 10:30 o'clock each evening.

The Tri-Towns Jaycees, organized with cooperation of the Cumberland Jaycees, will continue to accept charter members through next Monday.

For a program a 28-minute film entitled "Waste Not, Want Not" was shown. It explained some of the major recommendations for governmental efficiency made by the Second Hoover Commission. Albert D. Darby Jr., chairman of the Jaycee committee for the project, said that only about 16 per cent of the commission's recommendations have been carried out since last summer when they were presented to Congress.

Robert R. Esler, who was vice-president of the Rockville Jaycees when he came to Cumberland recently as employment manager for the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, was a guest.

The child also suffered second degree burns on her left side, face, neck and back. Her parents rushed the child to the local hospital where the girl was admitted about 6:50 p. m.

Companion Held Without Bail In Man's Death

BALTIMORE, April 4 (AP) — James W. East of Baltimore was being held without bail today on a charge of assaulting and causing the death of Robert Welton, a Baltimore resident formerly of Petersburg, W. Va.

East was arraigned last Sunday several hours after Welton died of injuries police said he sustained in a fight with East.

A hearing in Homicide Court is to be set by the State's Attorney's office.

Police reported that about 11 p. m. last Friday, Welton and East started home after several drinks. On the way they stopped the car and got out to fight.

In the scuffle, the report said, Welton tumbled into Gwynn Falls Run, a stream running through a small ravine and sustained several injuries, including gashes on his forehead.

East helped him out of the run and helped him to the home of a sister of Welton. Welton insisted that no action be taken, police said.

East first was arrested for disorderly conduct, then for investigation after Welton's condition was termed serious.

After Welton died at 1 a. m. last Sunday, the charge against East was changed to assault and causing the death of Welton.

Ancient Mailbox Is Replaced By Bright New One

Residents of South Cumberland who post a letter at the B&O YMCA are finding a brightly colored red, white and blue mail box which has replaced a box of ancient vintage.

The old cast iron dark green "Letter Box" had been at the Y for years. It was removed and taken to the basement of the Post Office and can be described as an antique.

Postal authorities were unable to find a date of manufacture on the box, which is present on later model boxes. It was manufactured by Orr, Painter and Company of Reading, Pa.

The slot for placing letters is located on the side and the postman who emptied the box also unlocked it from the side. Present-day mail boxes have the slot on the front.

The old "Letter Box" had been on a wall beam at the Y and was supported by sturdy brackets.

New Warehouse Will Be Built At Kelly Plant

The John I. Vandegrift Company is the general contractor for the project. The builders hope to have the job finished by September 1, although it may take longer.

This new building actually consists of two structures. The larger building, 280 by 380 feet in size, will have three new walls of concrete block. The fourth wall will be the south side of the present building. The foundation will be concrete.

A smaller building, 60 by 160 feet in size, also will be constructed. This building will be used for storage of mill gum, which is rubber that needs additional seasoning.

Officials of the tire-manufacturing company remarked that the firm has been in operation here for 35 years and never has had adequate storage facilities here. It has been estimated that the larger of the two structures will be able to store a minimum of 100,000 truck and passenger car tires and probably more.

For years the company has been shipping many of its tires to Pittsburgh and Baltimore for storage in rented facilities. Many of the tires later were shipped back into this immediate area. Use of this point where the tires are manufactured for storage will reduce shipping costs. The company also will be able to give up the rented facilities in the larger cities, thereby saving additional money.

Firemen Get Four Calls

However, the blaze which resulted when grease on the motor block ignited from a motor backfire, was out on arrival. A passing motorist noticed the fire, took an extinguisher from his car and quenched the flames.

District 16 firemen checked a brush fire on Wilson Road near Oldtown yesterday shortly after noon. The volunteers fought the flames 43 minutes. One and a half acres were scorched, firemen said.

Volunteer firemen from Ridgeley also received a call about 11:45 a. m., yesterday but were unable to locate the blaze. They surmise that someone had been burning brush and had it under control, as no further calls were received.

The 85-foot aerial ladder and Engine Company No. 1 from Central station responded to a call at 12:26 a. m., yesterday when steam from a hot water heater at 117 Polk Street began escaping. No damage was reported.

Warm Spell Sets Record

[By The Associated Press]

April 4 arose Wednesday grey and glum, sprawling over the Maryland countryside like a frumpish housewife at the breakfast table. But about noon, she threw off her melancholy and donned her best Spring finery.

By nightfall, she had proved herself a real hot mama.

Fog—so thick it hid the clouds the Weather Bureau says were there—blanketed the state during the morning. But warm air finally elbowed the cloudy, foggy weather out of Maryland and the mercury, delighted at the warmth, climbed into the high 70's and 80's.

Just after 5 p.m. in Baltimore, the temperature reached 84 degrees—one degree higher than the previous April 4 record which had stood since 1892.

Waldorf reported 87 degrees. Here are some other high readings: Rockville 84, Waterloo and Towson 82, Easton and Randallstown 81, Frederick, Pikesville and Salisbury 80, Benson 71 and Conowingo 69.

Thunderstorms and scattered showers were prevalent Wednesday and Wednesday night in northeastern Maryland, holding the temperatures lower.

In Cumberland, an unusual 87-degree high was reported by State Police at their barracks in the city. At Constitution Park overlooking the city, the official weather station had a high reading of 81.

After April 4's flighty manner, April 5 was expected to be a pretty average sort of girl.

Wednesday's warm weather was expected to be shoved out to sea during the night by strong westerly winds. Cooler and drier air from the Plains and Midwest was due in Thursday, allowing considerable sunshine but holding the high temperatures to about what they should be for this time of year—the mid 60's.

Allegany, Garrett County Women Win Cook Titles

Mrs. Ardell Haines of LaVale and Mrs. Marvin Jones of Mountain Lake Park were chosen "Mrs. Cumberland" and "Mrs. Oakland" following cook-offs yesterday to select area representatives in the nationwide "Mrs. America" contest.

They will now enter competition for the "Mrs. Maryland" title to be held in Cumberland April 18.

Three area home economists named Mrs. Haines and Mrs. Jones over two other district homemakers—Mrs. Clyde Runion, 912 Piedmont Avenue, Cumberland, and Mrs. Paul Gipe of Bowling Green.

In addition to their homemaking ability, the contestants' appearance, personality, character and community activity also were factors influencing the final decision.

Mrs. Haines is the mother of a 10-year-old son, and her husband is principal of Bruce High School, Westernport. Mrs. Jones has two children, and her husband is a men's clothing salesman.

The winner of the Maryland state finals will go to Ellinor Village, Fla., to take part in the "Mrs. America" contest in May.

Judges at yesterday's contest were Mrs. Gladys Eaton, school lunch program supervisor for Allegany County; Mrs. George Hanst, "Mrs. Western Maryland" last year and a former home economist from Oakland; and Mrs. Franklin Kremer of Cumberland, former home economics teacher and Red Cross worker.

Each contestant was given a brazier pan and a five-piece set of cooking utensils for participating in the local cook-off. The two winners also receive their choice of an automatic gas range.

West Virginian Faces Trial On Robbery Count

An indictment charging Douglas Eugene Twigg, 29, of Pattersons Creek, W. Va., with robbing a store clerk of $11 while armed with a pen knife, was placed on the open docket yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Twigg was arrested about 8:40 p. m. January 16 at the South End Democratic Club less than 40 minutes after he allegedly robbed Mrs. Sylvia Fulk of $11 while she was working in the Harry Footer and Company store on South Centre Street.

Mrs. Fulk identified Twigg as the man who came into the Footer store, drew a knife on her and demanded $20 or your life." He left after taking $9 in bills and $2 in change from the store, she said.

Twigg has been confined in the County Jail since January 17 awaiting action by the grand jury.

Another indictment docketed yesterday charges Larry Graham Patton, 20, this city, with carnal knowledge of a girl whose age was between 14 and 16 years. The offense allegedly occurred last September 15. Patton has been in jail since March 6.

The grand jury was scheduled to return to the Court House at 9:15 a. m. today amid indications that it soon may conclude its activities which started Monday morning.

West Side Has Power Failure

The high winds which hit Cumberland yesterday afternoon were blamed for a power failure in a section of West Side and the area toward Cresaptown.

A spokesman for the Potomac Edison Company last night said the failure occurred about 3:08 p. m. and normal power was restored in about 33 minutes.

They are Harry Stewart Sr., Murley's Branch Road, Flintstone, and Harry Stewart Jr.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya said the father and son assaulted the cab driver, Harry William Davis, 30, Jane Frazier Village, the night of March 20 at the foot of Martin Mountain as Davis was driving them toward Flintstone.

Mansfield Hits Ike's Economy, Security Plans

Senate Aspirants Attend Dinner

FREDERICK, April 4 (AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D - Mont) tonight blamed President Eisenhower for placing economy ahead of security, thereby placing his country's internal welfare and external force in jeopardy.

He told some 300 Democrats at a Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner he put the blame at the top of the Republican administration because "Eisenhower to me does not wear a halo" and "does not have feet made of clay."

"You can not put your hand any place on the map without hitting a troubled area of the world," Mansfield said, naming Cyprus, French North Africa and internal economic conditions in Japan.

Russia, he said "has changed tactics but not objectives" and warned that instead of reducing armed forces, this country should be building and modernizing them.

"I shudder to think what would happen," he added, "if with the present status of our armed forces —material and manwise—we were called upon to defend one of the innumerable pacts we are pledged to support."

All stood and were introduced but was not called on to speak.

John R. Foley and J. Grahame Walker, seeking the 6th District nomination to Congress, also were present as were county office holders, State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert.

Sen. Mansfield also dealt at length with the farm situation.

He said the farm population is the "only segment of the population actually suffering the current economic squeeze," and said the farmers "are getting tired of being pitted between labor and business."

Driver Burned, Truck Ruined In Freak Fire

Fred Jenkins, 18, Slightly Injured

An 18-year-old Clarysville truck driver was burned when the truck he was operating caught fire while he was dumping a load of rubbish at the City Dump. The vehicle was destroyed.

Fred Jenkins, a senior at Beall High School, was treated at Memorial Hospital for first degree burns about the face, neck and the top of his shoulders.

The mishap occurred as Jenkins was in the process of dumping a load of rubbish picked up earlier in the day from a local industrial plant.

Albert W. Klavuhn of Lion Spring, some eight miles west of Cumberland on U. S. Route 40, owner of the truck, gave this account of the accident.

Another driver for Klavuhn, Carl F. Swindel, Meyersdale, Pa., and a helper went to the local plant yesterday morning and the load of rubbish was placed on the vehicle.

As the driver was traveling through Meyersdale toward the dump, motor trouble developed and he decided to park the truck.

Later in the day Klavuhn and Jenkins went to pick up the stranded truck with another vehicle and decided to unload the rubbish by pulling the truck to the dump.

Jenkins was in the cab of the truck, and had backed it to the edge of the dump. Klavuhn was near the truck and after Jenkins began raising the hoist to dump the load, part of it spilled down over the dump and in seconds burning debris caught the load and the entire truck was engulfed in flames.

Klavuhn told Jenkins to pull the truck away but the inside of the cab became so hot that the victim was forced to jump to safety.

He was taken to the hospital in a nearby auto.

More Than 600 Railroad 'Bugs' To Visit City

Between 600 and 1,000 model engineers and railroad enthusiasts from Baltimore and Washington will come to Cumberland Sunday, April 15, to visit the facilities of the two local railroads.

Anthony Saeli, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, said the two groups of railroad "bugs" will come here in special trains arriving about noon April 15.

The Baltimore group, known as Baltimore Society of Model Engineers Inc., will travel to Cumberland in a special Western Maryland Railway train. The Washington group will come here on a special Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train.

While here they will visit the roundhouses of both railroads and are especially interested in inspecting some of the old steam engines which no longer operate in those metropolitan centers.

One of the problems facing Saeli in attempting to make arrangements for feeding the visitors is that many of the downtown restaurants normally are closed on Sundays. It is hoped that arrangements can be made so that the visitors to Cumberalnd all can be fed, he said.

The trip director for the Baltimore group is Irvin V. Kopp.

Another group, which will visit Cumberland tonight, is the 40-member Shelton College choir from Erskine Lake, N. J. The choir has been touring Virginia and North Carolina. The singers will stay here overnight en route to a Friday engagement in Pittsburgh.

The choir will present a program over a local radio station while here. The arrival is scheduled for between 4 and 5 p. m. today. Saeli has made the necessary arrangements for feeding and housing the young singers.

New Warehouse Will Be Built At Kelly Plant

The John I. Vandegrift Company is the general contractor for the project. The builders hope to have the job finished by September 1, although it may take longer.

This new building actually consists of two structures. The larger building, 280 by 330 feet in size, will have three new walls of concrete block. The fourth wall will be the south side of the present building. The foundation will be concrete.

A smaller building, 60 by 160 feet in size, also will be constructed. This building will be used for storage of mill gum, which is rubber that needs additional seasoning.

Officials of the tire-manufacturing company remarked that the firm has been in operation here for 35 years and never has had adequate storage facilities here. It has been estimated that the larger of tne two structures will be able to store a minimum of 100,000 truck and passenger car tires and probably more.

For years the company has been shipping many of its tires to Pittsburgh and Baltimore for storage in rented facilities. Many of the tires later were shipped back into this immediate area. Use of this point where the tires are manufactured for storage will reduce shipping costs. The company also will be able to give up the rented facilities in the larger cities, thereby saving additional money.

Firemen Get Four Calls

District 16 firemen checked a brush fire on Wilson Road near Oldtown yesterday shortly after noon. The volunteers fought the flames 43 minutes. One and a half acres were scorched, firemen said.

Volunteer firemen from Ridgeley also received a call about 11:45 a. m., yesterday but were unable to locate the blaze. They surmise that someone had been burning brush and had it under control, as no further calls were received.

Warm Spell Sets Record

[By The Associated Press]

April 4 arose Wednesday grey and glum, sprawling over the Maryland countryside like a frumpish housewife at the breakfast table. But about noon, she threw off her melancholy and donned her best Spring finery.

By nightfall, she had proved herself a real hot mama.

Fog—so thick it hid the clouds the Weather Bureau says were there—blanketed the state during the morning. But warm air finally elbowed the cloudy, foggy weather out of Maryland and the mercury, delighted at the warmth, climbed into the high 70's and 80's.

Just after 5 p.m. in Baltimore, the temperature reached 84 degrees—one degree higher than the previous April 4 record which had stood since 1892.

Waldorf reported 87 degrees. Here are some other high readings: Rockville 84, Waterloo and Towson 82, Easton and Randallstown 81, Frederick, Pikesville and Salisbury 80, Benson 71 and Conowingo 69.

Thunderstorms and scattered showers were prevalent Wednesday and Wednesday night in northeastern Maryland, holding the temperatures lower.

In Cumberland, an unusual 87-degree high was reported by State Police at their barracks in the city. At Constitution Park overlooking the city, the official weather station had a high reading of 81.

After April 4's flighty manner, April 5 was expected to be a pretty average sort of girl.

Wednesday's warm weather was expected to be shoved out to sea during the night by strong westerly winds. Cooler and drier air from the Plains and Midwest was due in Thursday, allowing considerable sunshine but holding the high temperatures to about what they should be for this time of year—the mid 60's.

Allegany, Garrett County Women Win Cook Titles

Mrs. Ardell Haines of LaVale and Mrs. Marvin Jones of Mountain Lake Park were chosen "Mrs. Cumberland" and "Mrs. Oakland" following cook-offs yesterday to select area representatives in the nationwide "Mrs. America" contest.

They will now enter competition for the "Mrs. Maryland" title to be held in Cumberland April 18.

Three area home economists named Mrs. Haines and Mrs. Jones over two other district homemakers—Mrs. Clyde Runion, 912 Piedmont Avenue, Cumberland, and Mrs. Paul Gipe of Bowling Green.

In addition to their homemaking ability, the contestants' appearance, personality, character and community activity also were factors influencing the final decision.

Mrs. Haines is the mother of a 10-year-old son, and her husband is principal of Bruce High School, Westernport. Mrs. Jones has two children, and her husband is a men's clothing salesman.

The winner of the Maryland state finals will go to Ellinor Village, Fla., to take part in the "Mrs. America" contest in May.

Judges at yesterday's contest were Mrs. Gladys Eaton, school lunch program supervisor for Allegany County; Mrs. George Hanst, "Mrs. Western Maryland" last year and a former home economist from Oakland; and Mrs. Franklin Kremer of Cumberland, former home economics teacher and Red Cross worker.

Each contestant was given a brazier pan and a five-piece set of cooking utensils for participating in the local cook-off. The two winners also receive their choice of an automatic gas range.

West Virginian Faces Trial On Robbery Count

An indictment charging Douglas Eugene Twigg, 29, of Pattersons Creek, W. Va., with robbing a store clerk of $11 while armed with a pen knife, was placed on the open docket yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Mansfield Hits Ike's Economy, Security Plans

Senate Aspirants Attend Dinner

FREDERICK, April 4 (AP)—Sen. Mansfield (D - Mont) tonight blamed President Eisenhower for placing economy ahead of security, thereby placing his country's internal welfare and external force in jeopardy.

He told some 300 Democrats at a Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner he put the blame at the top of the Republican administration because "Eisenhower to me does not wear a halo" and "does not have feet made of clay."

"You can not put your hand any place on the map without hitting a troubled area of the world," Mansfield said, naming Cyprus, French North Africa and internal economic conditions in Japan.

Russia, he said "has changed tactics but not objectives" and warned that instead of reducing armed forces, this country should be building and modernizing them.

"I shudder to think what would happen," he added, "if with the present status of our armed forces—material and manwise—we were called upon to defend one of the innumerable pacts we are pledged to support."

All stood and were introduced but was not called on to speak.

John R. Foley and J. Grahame Walker, seeking the 6th District nomination to Congress, also were present as were county office holders, State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert.

Sen. Mansfield also dealt at length with the farm situation.

He said the farm population is the "only segment of the population actually suffering the current economic squeeze," and said the farmers "are getting tired of being pitted between labor and business."

Meanwhile, Piedmont Patrolman Charles Spiker and Doran Everett, sworn in as a special deputy, arrested Jessie in a woods back of the Erin Street Baptist Church, where he reportedly fled.
